British Forces Withdraw To New Line 75 Miles From Rangoon.

BULLETIN

RANGOON, Burma — (U.P.) — The Imperial defenders of Burma established a front only 50 miles from the Burma road today, having retreated before a Japanese offensive that cracked the Salween river line at all points.

(By Associated Press)

Prime Minister John Curtin ordered mobilization of "every human being" in Australia today as Japan's invasion hordes pressed a direct threat to Java, the heart of the Dutch Indies, and forced a new British withdrawal in the critical battle of Burma.

Blasting a path for invasion, Japanese planes bombed and machine-gunned several islands in the narrow Sunda strait which separates Java from Sumatra.

A bulletin from N. E. I. headquarters said Dutch bombers, striking back at the invaders, scored a direct hit on a Japanese transport and probably hit another in an attack presumably made off the Sumatra coast.

Java is the last big island barrier guarding Australia from invasion by Japanese armies striking southwards from captured Singapore.

Dispatches from Batavia said the Japanese were evidently preparing to attack Java, headquarters of Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell's United Nations command, without even waiting to complete their investment of Dutch Sumatra.

N. E. I. authorities, however, said Axis rumors of a Japanese landing on Java were untrue.

The situation in neighboring Sumatra, across the 20-mile Strait of Sunda, remained obscure following Japanese capture of Palembang, producer of half the Indies' petroleum output.

Dutch quarters said that the scorched-earth destruction of Palembang's great oil refineries in

Churchill Says Big Nazi Ships Badly Crippled

(By Associated Press)

Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain announced today that crippling aerial blows inflicted on the 26,000-ton German battleships Gneisenau and Scharnhorst in the battle of Dover Strait would keep the Nazi sea raiders out of action for some time and that "before they can again play any part in the war" new British ships would be ready.

Simultaneously, the German high command disclosed that British bombers have already begun attacks on Helgoland Bight, where the two battleships and the cruiser Prinz Eugen are reported to have taken refuge after escaping from their bomb-battered haven at Brest, France.

"Whatever smart of disappointment or annoyance may remain in our breasts that the final forfeit was not exacted, there is no doubt that the naval position in

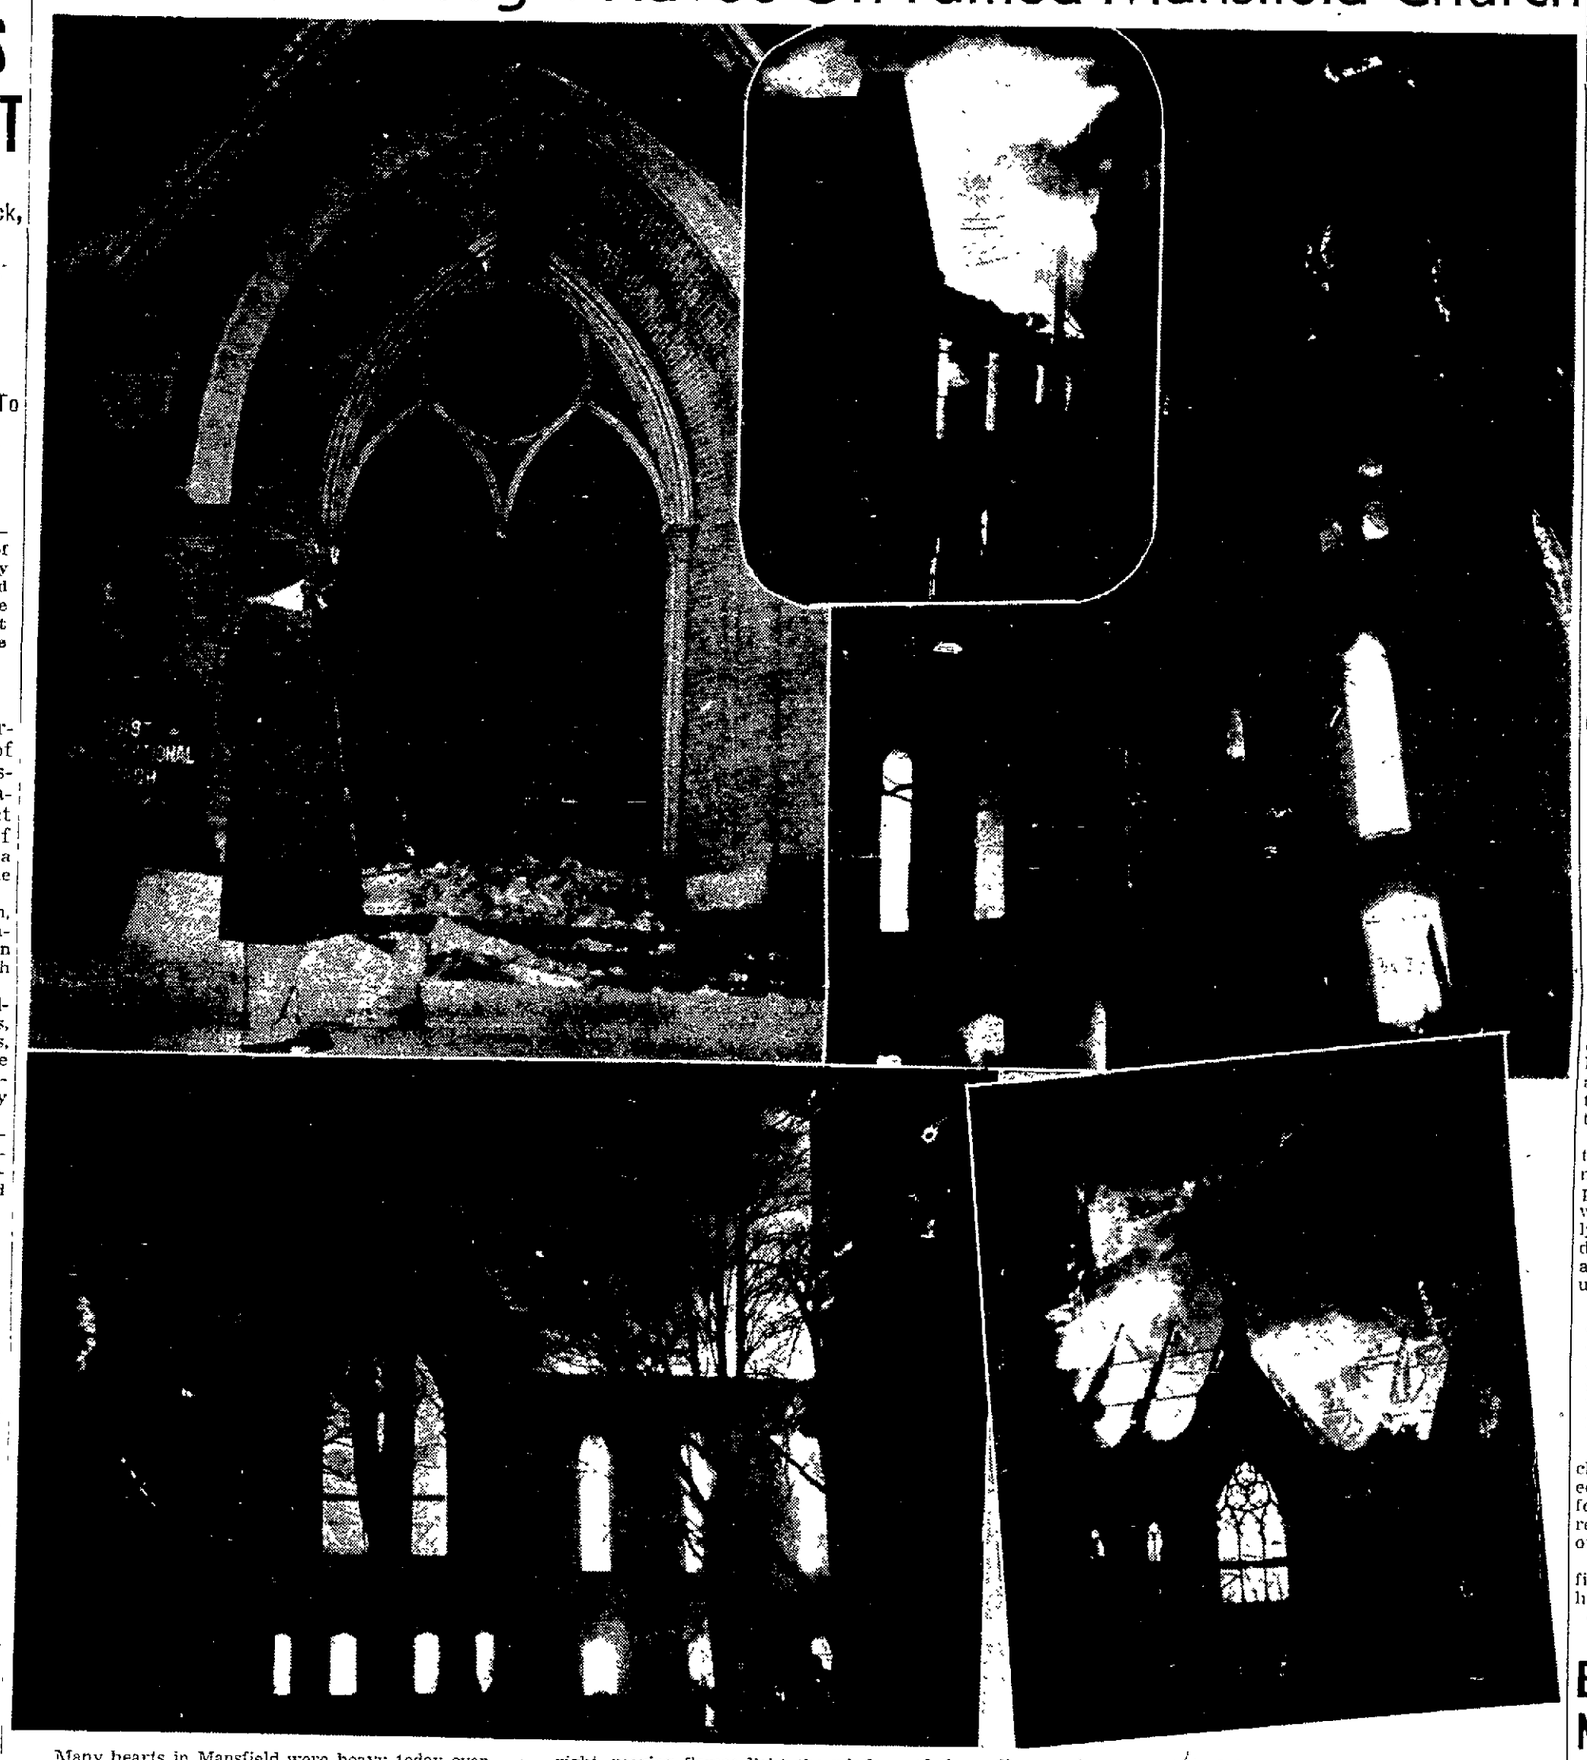
As Flames Wrought Havoc On Famed Mansfield Church



Many hearts in Mansfield were heavy today over the destruction of the First Congregational church by fire early this morning, but none was heavier than that of Rev. Peter Young, pastor, pictured at upper left as he gazes sorrowfully at the charred main entrance of the once-proud building. At upper right, roaring flames light the windows of the auditorium. In inset at top, a view of the blaze from the west side of the building. Lower left, a view from the east side shows how completely gutted both the basement (row of small windows) and the auditorium (note where large stained glass window in transept had been broken out). The unusual photograph at the lower right was snapped with a small Kodak by Evelyn England, 142 West Second street, just as the towering spire of the building toppled to the ground. Congregationalists Had Two Churches; Fire Ruined Both

While the First Congregational church which was razed by fire at dawn today opened 69 years ago, the Congregational church in Mansfield dates back to 1835 when the city was only 27 years old. The congregation has had only two church buildings and both were destroyed by fire, the first in 1870 and the second early today.

As long ago as 1833 a small group of Mansfield residents began a movement for organization of the church, but the actual founding had to wait until April 3, 1835, when Rev. Enoch Conger and Rev. E. Judson of the Huron, O., Presbytery came to Mansfield to set up the church organization. They represented the American Home Missionary society.

First pastor of the church was Rev. Seth Waldo who held the pastorate for one year, beginning in August, 1835. Deacons

SET FOR TRIAL

Jurors Called For Spy Case To Be Held at Capital.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— A jury of ten men and two women was sworn in today for the federal district court trial of George Sylvester Viereck, German propagandist charged with violating the foreign agent's registration act.

Laura Ingalls, famous aviatrix, was convicted last week for willful failure to register under the same act as a Nazi agent.

Viereck registered under the act as a propagandist but was indicted for alleged failure to supply details of his activities.

DUTCH HOLD MACASSAR

NEW YORK—(INS)— Reports reaching London indicate Macassar on the island of Celebes in the Netherlands East Indies is still in Dutch hands, the British radio said today in a broadcast heard by NBC.

Akron Pupils Will Go to School At 9:15 Until April 1.

AKRON — (U.P.) — The Akron board of education today voted to set back opening hours of public elementary schools from 8:45 to 9:15 a. m. (EWT) until April 1.

Parents had complained of traffic hazards involved when their children went to school in darkness. Opening hours of high schools were unchanged.

COUNTY SIGNS 5,000 FOR DUTY

Four Fathers and Sons Among Draft Registrants In Union Rural District.

Mansfield and Richland county had registered close to 5,000 more men for service in the nation's armed forces, the county's three selective service boards revealed today as the government set the middle of March as the tentative date for the third draft lottery to determine the order in which 9,000,000 men between the ages of 20 and 45 will be called to duty.

Among the registrants were four father-and-son combinations in the Union rural area. They were Sidney Fulk and son Henry, Lawrence N. Vantilburg and son Merle E., and Chester Oswalt and son Richard, all of Weller township, and Charles E. Kuhn and son Charles N. of Franklin township.

National draft headquarters reported that the registration was completed throughout the country last night with but little difficulty and early returns indicated that the number enrolled will be close to the expected 9,000,000.

Bombers Take Vengeance On Subs For Caribbean Attacks

BALBOA, C. Z.—(U.P.)—American armed forces tightened Caribbean defenses today against the possibility that German submarine attacks in the Dutch West Indies were a feint in preparation for an enemy thrust at the Panama Canal.

ACCEPTS LOAN

Russians to Get Hundreds of Millions More From U. S.

WASHINGTON— (INS) —Responsible quarters in Washington today disclosed that Soviet Russia has accepted the offer of a substantial new loan from the United States government.

Amount of the new loan is understood to run into hundreds of millions of dollars. It is intended to supplement the billion dollar lend-lease credit advanced to Russia by President Roosevelt last November.

WILL SHE QUIT?

Capital Hears New Rumors Miss Perkins To Resign.

WASHINGTON— (INS) —Reports that Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins will soon resign were current in high administration circles today. While rumors of her retirement have periodically spread through the capitol, the fresh reports come from more responsible sources.

With the increasing importance of Sidney Hillman in the war-labor set-up and the action of President Roosevelt in naming an official "labor cabinet," Miss Perkins' influence is said to be steadily declining in administration circles.

One usually well informed source predicted the resignation of Miss Perkins within two weeks.

Flames Reduce Stately Edifice To Smoky Ruins

Spectacular Early Morning Blaze Hits First Congregational Church; Crowd Watches Solemnly As Tall Spire Falls, And Building Crumples.

By ALVIN L. KRIEG

Four fire-blackened walls were all that remained today of the First Congregational church, one of Mansfield's oldest places of worship and a famous landmark which stood majestically with its 215-foot spire on busy Park avenue west for 69 years.

Inside was left only a smouldering mass of water-soaked ruins after a spectacular early morning blaze of unknown origin. Monetary loss in the fire was estimated at approximately $225,000, but to members of the congregation and hundreds of other Mansfielders, the loss was one that cannot be measured in terms of dollars.

That feeling of loss was readily apparent among the more than 1,000 persons who were drawn to the scene by the flames that shot high into the air, and by the angry red glow in the sky.

There was none of the noisy excitement that one usually sees at any fire of major proportions. The atmosphere was one of quiet and shock, and solemnity. This was true, too, among the many hundreds of persons who knew nothing of the fire until they passed the scene on their way to work and saw the ragged shell of the church standing in sharp outline against a sodden sky.

One woman, among the onlookers, expressed it.

"I was baptized in that church," she said, quietly, as she watched the flames. To many others in the crowd, there came back recollections of incidents woven into the pattern of the church, and of the city. Baptisms, weddings, and funerals. Sunday morning church services, and Sunday school meetings.

The actual time the fire started is not known. The first alarm was received at 4:02 a. m., and 14 minutes later a general alarm went out for every fire company in the city. Thirty-two men, nearly the city's entire force, fought

'AUNTY WALKER' STAYS TO END

As Bromfield Wrote In 'Farm,' Her Picture Hung In Church To the Very Last.

By VIRGIL A. STANFIELD

Author Louis Bromfield predicted nine years ago in his novel, "The Farm," that a big gilt-framed picture of "Aunty Walker" would hang in the children's library at the First Congregational church in Mansfield "so long as the church exists." His prediction came true today.

As the flames ate their way into the church library in the early morning fire they destroyed the picture of the beloved colored woman whose $2,000 bequest nearly 60 years ago started the children's library at the church which at one time had nearly 2,000 volumes.

Bromfield's "Aunty Walker" was known as "Aunty Bradford" to members of the church. She was one of the few colored members of the church in the 1870's and 1880's. She died in 1885.

Even the oldest members of the church remember the aged colored woman only as "Auntie Bradford" and no where in the church records is she mentioned by any other name.

With the growth of the Mansfield public library, the children's library at the church was used

Oft-Asked Question Answered Now.

A question that thousands of persons have probably asked themselves—"What if the Congregational church spire should fall?" — was answered this morning.

The spire, eaten through by flames, toppled and plunged crashing to earth like a giant lance, impaling itself in the ground, at 4:22 a. m., some 50 feet east of the flaming building. No one was hurt.

For 69 years the spire had stood, braving the elements, its tip 210 feet above the base of the church.

Barks Of 'Tippy Tin' Awaken Master Who Sounds First Alarm

The barking of "Tippy Tin," a one-year-old toy bulldog, gave the first alarm of the fire that destroyed the First Congregational church this morning.

The dog is the pet of Raymond Bauer, 19-year-old teller at the Mansfield Savings Trust National Bank, who lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Bauer, at 105 West Luther place. The home is one of the string of residences that were menaced by the flames and falling debris.

Because the dog is inclined to bark at the slightest noise, his owner said he paid no attention to him at first. But when "Tippy Tin" continued to bark furiously, he arose and investigated. Attracted to the window by the glow, he awakened his parents and grandmother, Mrs. Lucinda Chapman, and then gave the alarm.

"The dog usually sleeps downstairs," said Raymond, "but last night for some reason he came up to my bedroom and was sleeping on my bed.

"I believe it was a little after 3:30 that he first began to bark. He raced around yipping and finally ran downstairs. He usually barks when he hears a noise, so I didn't think much of it, and just called out to him to keep quiet. But a few minutes later he started barking again, and I got up to investigate.

"I noticed a glow outside and ran to the window. I thought then of a fire in the church, because we've often mentioned during the year we've lived in this house that the church buildings are very close to the house and this might be dangerous in event of fire.

"I saw flames coming out of the back of the church, and I wakened the family. Then I telephoned the number listed for the fire department, but was unable to get the connection. So I telephoned the police and told them about it. By that time it must have been about 4 o'clock."

(Police headquarters lists the time the first alarm was received at 4:02 a. m.)

The Bauers carried out some of their clothing and personal belongings and took them to the nearby residence of J. L. Lorentz. Then "Tippy Tin" got his reward. Raymond took him to Max Diner and there the dog had a hamburger sandwich—without onion, compliments of the proprietor.

JAPAN PRESSES ADVANCE UPON BURMA, JAVA

Bombers Blast Path For Isle Assault; British Withdraw Toward Rangoon.

a $100,000,000 sacrificial fire had thwarted Japan's urgent need for oil and that only wells of comparatively poor quality remain.

With Java exposed to direct assault from three directions—Sumatra, Borneo and Celebes—the Dutch acknowledged the extreme gravity of the situation, but a spokesman declared the island's defenders faced the "zero hour" with burning resolution.

"Perhaps it is true that only a miracle can save the Indies," he said, "but miracles do sometimes happen.

Prime Minister Curtin said Australia's war cabinet had been instructed to put the commonwealth on a full war footing.

"This means clearly and specifically that every human being in this country is now at the service of the government to work for the defense of Australia," Curtin proclaimed.

A 30-mile withdrawal by British forces from the Thaton-Duyinseik area to a Bilin river line centered the battle of Burma near the head of the Gulf of Martaban today.

The British, extricating threatened infantry units and describing the withdrawal as a move to form "more concentrated positions" on the river, apparently forfeited the railroad town of Thaton, 40 miles north of Japanese-held Moulmein and about 105 miles by road from Rangoon. They were reported taking up stations 75 miles from Rangoon.

Natives, Whites Evacuating Rangoon

RANGOON —(INS)—Throngs of natives and whites moved westward out of Rangoon today, taking their possessions with them, as the Japanese hordes attacking from the east pressed closer.

British military communiques indicated the Japanese invading Burma from Thailand have pushed 30 miles closer to Rangoon, until they are now within 75 miles of this city of 500,000, the southern terminus of the Burma road supply line to China.

The British and imperial forces defending Burma have fallen back from the Salween river defense shield to the Bilin river, some 30 miles farther westward, it was said.

Thaton, important city on the Martaban Rangoon railway, was thus conceded to have fallen into the hands of the Japs.

Dutch Appeal To Australia For Aid

SYDNEY, Australia — (UP) — The Netherlands East Indies has appealed to Australia for substantially increased aid and has asked assurances that the Allies are determined to defend Java to the end, it was understood today.

News of the Dutch appeal came as the cabinet, at an emergency meeting, ordered the inner war cabinet to announce all regulations necessary for total mobilization of all resources, human and material, throughout Australia to ensure effective defense of the continent against an expected Japanese attack.

An air ministry communique announced that in addition to reconnoitering over Port Moresby, on the New Guinea coast northeast of Australia, 41 Japanese planes had made a savage one-hour attack on Allied ships in the Timor sea, northeast of the great Australian northern base of Darwin but failed to score a single hit.

Asserts Jap Navy Roams All Pacific

TOKYO —(By Official Japanese Wireless) — (INS) — Japanese navy minister Admiral Shigetaro Shimada declared today that Nipponese naval operations cover the whole Pacific and extend to the east of the American mainland. He described the operations as "enormous and extremely successful."

Shimada said the naval operations are aimed at "smashing strategic enemy bases and attacking lines of communications."

He claimed the fall of Singapore extended Japanese command of the sea to the Indian ocean and will have weighty influence on future developments in the war.

Forecasts Surprise Attack on Japs

ADELAIDE —(INS)— Possibility of a counter-offensive action in the Pacific at a time that will surprise the Japanese was forecast today by Sir Keith Murdoch, managing director of the Melbourne Herald.

"We are not entitled to be downcast nor to hope too much," he said.

"We won't see the end of the first phase — Japanese exploitation of their sea and air supremacy—until we are equipped for the essential second phase, the counter-offensive.

"I believe it is possible that this counter-offensive will begin at a time that will surprise the Japanese if there is true co-operation between Australia, Britain, America and the Dutch the blows of our forces will soon start resounding."

Aruba, Netherlands West Indies, by a submarine which surfaced less than a mile off the port.

The commander reported last night from Aruba that American planes took to the air from both Aruba and Curacao as soon as the attacks began and oil found on the waters later indicated that some submarines had paid for the raids.

It was officially reported no damage was done to the refinery but members of the party with Lieut. Gen. Andrews brought terrible tales of shooting flames reaching mountainous proportions in Aruba harbor; of despairing cries from men doomed to die there, and of tracer shells screaming overhead as they watched the raid.

The reports that seven ships had suffered from the submarines were made in Maracaibo, Venezuela, by executives of the Largo petroleum company and survivors of the ships.

The oil company executives said that refineries in both Aruba and Curacao were shelled by submarines but no damage or deaths ashore resulted.

The scene of the attack is less than 800 miles from the Panama Canal Zone.

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts)—(AP)—Nazi U-boats penetrating the Caribbean defenses have sunk three tankers off the Dutch West Indies islands of Aruba and Curacao and shelled oil refineries and port installations, the German high command announced today.

Scotland Yard Gets Man In London Blackout Murders.

LONDON —(AP)— A crowd of women watched today at London's Bow street police station when Frederick Cummins, a 28-year-old RAF aircraftsman, was taken in to face a charge of murder for the Jack-the-Ripper slaying of three women in the west end.

A police car with drawn blinds hurried Cummins into the yard. The women surged forward but there was no disorder. The tall, good-looking suspect in RAF uniform was accused of the mutilations of Mrs. Margret Florence Lowe, 43; Mrs. Doris Jouannet, 32, and Mrs. Evelyn Gately, 30.

Thousands of police joined the Scotland Yard searchers in the quest for the killer who mutilated his victims' bodies with razor blades and created more fear of the night among London women than all of Hitler's bombs.

Janitor Saves Code Messages When Nazi Agents Turn Backs

(By United Press)

NEW YORK — Walter Edward Morissey, a furnace man who couldn't remember on the witness stand exactly what the letters "FBI" stood for, was credited today with saving from the flames documents that may help to convict six persons accused of spying for Germany.

Morrissey fired the furnace in the building that housed the German consulate, and the Nazi tenants frequently brought down papers for him to burn. They stood by to see the papers "destroyed," but they knew less of janitoring than diplomacy, and the moment their backs were turned Morrissey was able to yank the papers out, little more than scorched.

The most pertinent of the messages he salvaged, easily traced to the German government radio station, said:

"Restricted item C. Restricted item secret. To be decoded only by authorized persons for restricted items. Answer only by courier or secret code.

"According to request, ask Paul T. H. Borchardt, Battuta, 577 Isham street, Apartment 3G, care of Benzinger, New York city, in manner you deem best to burn letters from Robert dated Feb. 20, 1941."

The message was received Feb 17, although it mentioned a letter dated Feb. 20. As to the word "burn," the federal bureau of investigation translator pointed out it might mean literally that, or could mean "scorch" or "singe"—methods the alleged spies used to make "secret" writing legible.

Borchardt is a defendant. Lucy Boehmler, who turned state's evidence, said she had been told he should always be called "Robert." On the other hand, "Robert" might have meant some one in Europe.

FDR Calls Military Advisors For Talks on War.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— President Roosevelt today called his top-ranking military advisers to the White House for a conference, apparently to plan American strategy in the war.

Summoned to the meeting were Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff; Gen. Henry H. Arnold, deputy chief of staff in charge of the air corps; Admiral Harold Stark, chief of naval operations; and Admiral Ernest J. King, commander of the U. S. fleet.

The president also scheduled a luncheon conference with Lord Halifax, British ambassador to the United States.

were slated to meet this afternoon to tabulate registrations.

Board 1 figured its registration at 1,800, Board 2 at 1,487 and Board 3 at 1,700. Shelby reported a registration of 598 according to Board 3 which handles the county registration while Bellville reported 154, and Union 119. Shiloh, Butler and Lexington were expected to report by this afternoon.

There is no intention to call any of the 20 to 45 age group for service until the 21 to 35 classes have been exhausted, according to Washington officials. Those given order numbers in the third lottery will be placed at the end of the lists previously assigned order induction numbers.

Meanwhile selective service boards were directed by Washington to reclassify men who had been deferred for eye and teeth defects. The new standards require only that a soldier have enough teeth, false or natural, to eat army food. The vision requirement was also considerably relaxed.

Churchill Says Big Nazi Ships Badly Crippled

the Atlantic, so far from being worsened, is definitely eased," Churchill declared.

He said the German flight from Brest, at the entrance to the English channel, was "decidedly beneficial to us" and that "a threat to our convoys by the ships there is now removed."

On the North African front, British headquarters reported that German reconnoitering detachments had withdrawn from positions in advance of the main Axis lines near Ain El Gazala, 40 to 50 miles west of Tobruk.

In contrast to the German high command's claim that Russians had been crushed southeast of Vyazama, a London broadcast said the Red armies had advanced 80 miles or more westward from the Kirov zone below Smolensk, crossing the Sozh river.

The Sozh river, rising near Smolensk, angles southwestward across Smolensk province and the White Russian republic to a junction with the Dnieper at the northern border of the Ukraine.

What do I do?

—to AVOID a flat tire?

Many flats develop slowly. The tire tread picks up nails, tacks and other sharp objects which gradually work through the casing to the inner tube.

So inspection of tires for this foreign material is a very good practice.

If you should get a flat while driving, stop quickly but don't jam on the brakes—which causes the car to swerve. Both the tire and tube will be seriously damaged if run flat.

Tomorrow our Japanese merchandise goes on sale at SHARPLY REDUCED PRICES and the entire proceeds—every cent—will be used to buy

U. S. DEFENSE BONDS

And Other U. S. Government Issues

NO MONEY GOES TO JAPAN

We had bought no Japanese merchandise for nearly a year before "Pearl Harbor" and what we do now with previously bought items makes absolutely no difference to the Japanese. They were paid months ago. None of your money can reach Japan.

Here's the way we look at it:—We've got to keep on buying Defense Bonds until Japan cries "Uncle!"

SAVE AMERICAN RESOURCES

If Japanese stocks in America are left unused, American materials and labor will have to replace them. We can "SALVAGE FOR VICTORY" by using these Japanese items. To refuse to use them would hurt only ourselves by needlessly diverting supplies and labor needed for wartime effort.

It just doesn't seem smart to throw it away. We'd rather use it for bonds and planes and victory!

PROCEEDS FOR U. S. BONDS

The editor of this paper will be furnished with a notarized affidavit of the full proceeds from this sale to be used to buy United States Bonds to help build tanks, guns, and planes.

Why waste when Uncle Sam's asking us to conserve? Let's give it back to the Japs thru our guns!

SHARPLY REDUCED PRICES

All prices have been drastically reduced to turn this stock into Bonds at once and strengthen America's might at home and across the seas.

We're Salvaging for Victory! We're converting stored-up Jap merchandise into American armaments!

$225,000 FIRE LEAVES CHURCH IN SMOKY RUINS

Spectacular Blaze Destroys Congregational Edifice as Solemn Crowd Watches.

the blaze for more than four hours.

For most of this time, only two men remained on duty to protect the rest of the city against fire, and the only piece of equipment left for possible emergency was a 23-year-old truck. No calls were received, however.

Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger reported it was impossible to ascertain cause of the fire immediately.

"There is no way of determining that now," he said. "We got the alarm at 4 o'clock, but the fire evidently had been burning for some time. When our men arrived, the entire interior already was full of smoke and flames.

"In a case like this there is almost no way of stopping the fire. The big church auditorium served as a chimney; there was quite a wind, and the air poured right in like a draft in a huge furnace."

Firemen used six lines of hose that poured approximately 15,000 gallons of water a minute on the blaze. At their height of the fire, nearly a million gallons of water an hour was thrown on the blazing building and on nearby homes.

Recent rains may have helped to prevent spread of the fire, particularly to several residences on West Luther place, which are located only a comparatively few feet from the rear of the church.

When the blaze reached its first intensity the accumulation of heated air blew off the roof of the church with such a roar that many persons throughout the city thought there had been a severe explosion. At 4:20 a. m. the towering steeple fell, and its sharp spire fell point downward, burying itself several feet in the ground.

The top of the south wall was first to fall, and an avalanche of bricks tumbled to the church yard with a terrific noise. Next to go was the top of the east wall, which appeared for a moment as though it would fall outward, but it too fell into the blazing shell of the church. When the blaze was subdued, only the lower portions of the walls remained.

Several times firemen had to run when parts of the roof and upper parts of walls collapsed. One of them literally jumped out of his boots when a warning call came, because he was stuck in the mud. He ran to safety in his stocking feet. The Ohio Public Service company cut off the power in the lines which served the church, and for a brief period there was no service in part of the city.

Police established blockades at the Bowman and Mulberry intersections of Park avenue west, and rerouted traffic at these points. This blockade was lifted at 10 a. m.

Two 100-foot lengths of fire hose were buried under falling bricks. More than 2,500 feet of hose in all were used.

The first alarm was believed that telephoned to police by Raymond Bauer, 19, of 105 West Luther Place, who was awakened by the barking of his bulldog, "Tippy Tin."

The church steeple generally was described as the highest point in the state, higher even than the Terminal Tower in Cleveland since Mansfield's elevation is so much higher than that of the lake city. re-storation

The church, an imposing structure, its majestic steeple reached 215 feet above the street, was 69 years old. Construction of the building was started in 1871 some months after the first church burned to the ground, and continued for nearly three years. The main portion of the church that was destroyed this morning was opened in 1873, and several additions have been made during the years.

Only a year ago, the church was redecorated inside and out. But there was no attempt to alter any of the magnificent fittings, the solid black walnut woodwork. There was no machine work; the woodwork throughout the beautiful interior had been done painstakingly by hand.

All those fittings were lost in this morning's fire. Lost was the famous pipe organ of the church, said to be one of the best in this section. Destroyed, too, were the many valuable volumes and records in the church library and the many documents in the church study of the pastor, Rev. Peter Young. Among his possessions which were lost were hundreds of sermon transcripts and notes assembled his many years in the ministry.

Rev. Young arrived at the scene shortly before 5 a. m. He had been notified of the fire by telephone by Rev. Glenn Lewis, pastor of Grace Episcopal church.

Rev. Lewis promptly offered facilities of his church to Rev. Young's congregation. A similar offer came shortly from Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and other offers of the same kind came from other churches of the city.

United Lenten services which were to have been held in the First Congregational church tomorrow, will be conducted at the First Presbyterian church, it was announced today.

Officers of the fire-ruined church were to meet this afternoon to decide where services will be held in the immediate future. It was believed unlikely that the group would reach any decision concerning a new building until after later meetings are held.

The estimate of $225,000 loss was given by one of the veteran officers of the church, who reported that $150,000 of this amount was covered by insurance. This was divided among 11 companies, it was understood.

A report was circulated that the Boy Scout troop of the church had met there last evening, but this proved to be only hearsay. Roger Masquelier, assistant scoutmaster of the troop, said the meeting night had been changed from Monday to Wednesday six months ago. No scouts were in the building last night.

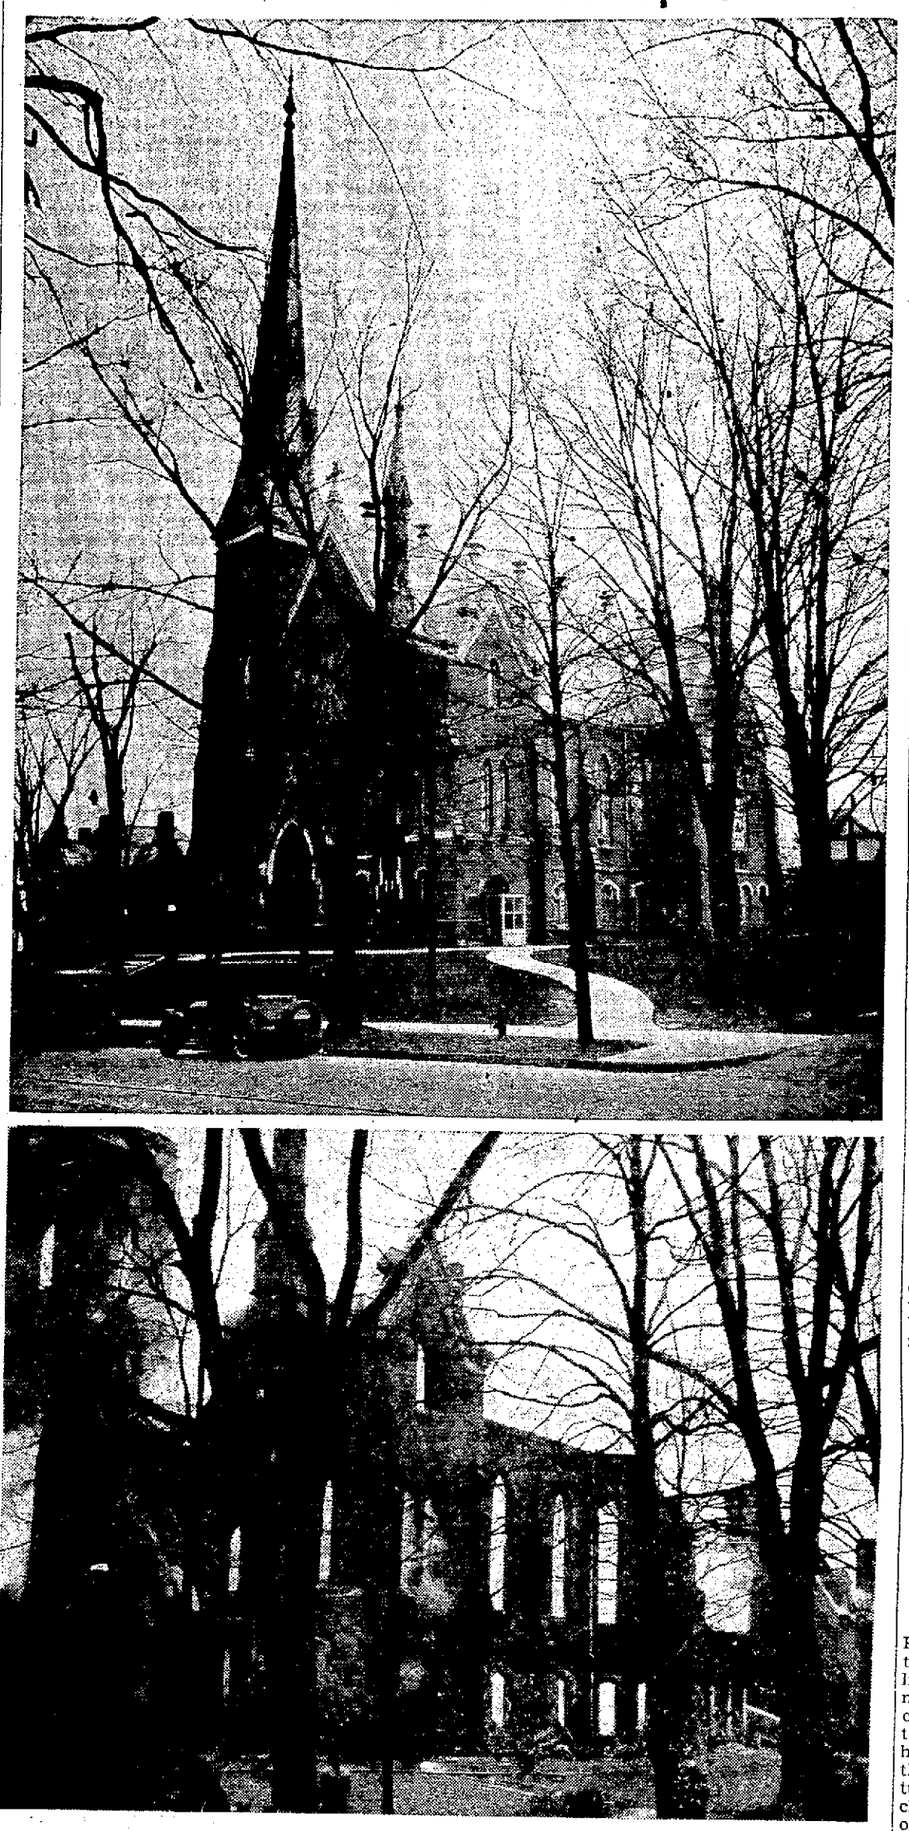
Before And After Flames Swept Church



Within a few hours just before dawn today, the graceful First Congregational church that was (top photo) had been reduced to a ragged and ugly shell (center photo) as flames ripped through it. And the spire that towered 210 feet above the church proper, and some 225 feet above street level plunged point-downward into the earth 50 feet east of the church (bottom photo). Fire Captain L. R. Zimmerman is shown beside the tip of the spire, which held claim to fame as the loftiest point in all Ohio.

'AUNTY WALKER' STAYS UNTIL CHURCH FALLS

less and a few years ago about 500 of its books were given to a colored school in the south. The church now has three colored members.

"She (Aunty Bradford) had no children and no relatives, but she had a passion for children and spoiled them when they went into the church kitchen before the hour for serving supper," Bromfield said in "The Farm."

"The library and Aunty Walker and the First Congregational church were profoundly American and profoundly New England," he added.

Mrs. William V. Kershner, 116 West Second street, just back of the church, was one of the first persons to see the fire. "It was about 4 o'clock when I woke up and saw the fire," she related. "At first I thought it was a neighbor's house, so I dressed in a hurry and ran out of the house yelling, 'Fire! Fire!' Then I found the fire was in the church."

Mrs. Kershner said she first saw the flames in the pastor's second-floor study, but smoke was pouring from the other side of the building at the same time.

Police and firemen had trouble keeping curious spectators far enough away from the burning structure to avoid the crumbling walls and the spire and chimney when they toppled. Fortunately the chimney collapsed within the building wreckage and the tall spire crashed into the open space behind the abandoned parsonage east of the church.

Within an hour after the flames were discovered Rev. Peter Young, the pastor, had received an offer of the use of the Grace Episcopal church for next Sunday's services. The offer came from Rev. Glenn F. Lewis, rector of the Episcopal church. It was Rev. Lewis who called Rev. Young about 4:50 a. m. to tell him about the fire. Rev. Young arrived at the scene a few minutes later.

The 215-foot spire was the tallest in the city and topped the downtown office buildings. The top of the spire, visible for several miles, was considered the highest point in Ohio, even reaching above the Terminal Tower in Cleveland and the A. I. U. tower in Columbus, because Mansfield's elevation is greater than that of either of the two larger cities. The spire was repainted in 1940.

Rev. E. G. Corwin, pastor of the First Methodist church, was at the fire scene before 5 a. m. He lives at 138 West Second street, not far from the Congregational church and was awake soon after the flames began flashing on his house. As Rev. Corwin watched the huge circular rose window tumble from the front of the church, he commented: "That was one of the most beautiful things in Mansfield."

The brick parish house east of the church escaped damage, although the tall church spire narrowly missed the house when the spire toppled across the lawn. The parish house has not been used by the church for nine years. It has been unoccupied for several months.

* * *

Smoke from the burning church blowing through an open basement window at the home of Arthur Beck, deputy county auditor, who lives on Second street behind the church, led him to believe his house was on fire. "The smoke was drifting up from the basement," Beck said, "and naturally I thought the fire was in the basement until I looked out the window and saw the flames."

His Reward For Fire Alarm

Raymond Bauer, 19, gives "Tippy Tin" his reward, an early-morning hamburger. The one-year-old toy bulldog roused Bauer with his barking, and the youth telephoned the alarm, believed to have been the first received, of the First Congregational church fire. Bauer lives with his parents at 105 West Luther place.

Congregationalists Had Two Churches; Fire Ruined Both of that first church were Thomas Smith, Mathias Day, Willianf Maxwell, Daniel Cook, and John E. Palmer.

The Congregational church was among the first organized in Mansfield. Histories of the city mention Presbyterian and Methodist churches as early as 1816.

The present site of the Congregational church included four acres along Park avenue west, known then as West Market street. The land was purchased in 1835 and construction of the first church building was started the same year.

That first building, then considered one of the largest and finest in Ohio, seated about 500 persons. It was a low, narrow brick structure with a plain rood except for a large belfry at the front. For years there was a high board fence in front of the church. In 1850 the church was enlarged and remodeled.

By 1869 members of the congregation thought their church was old enough and they needed a new one. There was considerable discussion of the advisability of building a new one then, however, and before the question was settled, the church was destroyed by fire in August, 1870.

Soon after the debris was cleared away, work was started on the graceful structure that stood until this morning. It was nearly three years in construction and was dedicated in 1873, according to the Memorial Manual of the Congregational church published in 1882.

In 1927 an addition, which included Sunday school rooms and the pastor's study, was built at the back of the church. Only last year the interior of the church was redecorated and the lawn was landscaped.

The church was one of the first in the nation to use a telephone system to carry the services to invalid members at their homes.

Describing the telephone system, the Memorial Manual of the church said: "A Blake transmitter occupies a neat pedestal in front of the platform, hardly prominent enough to attract attention. From it wires are stretched, invisible within the church edifice, to the different residences of those desiring telephonic connection, where, by applying a Bell receiver to the ear, every word uttered by the pastor may be distinctly heard."

Marine Recruiters Start Enlistments In Nearby Towns

Second of a series of one-day recruiting stands in cities and towns of Richland and surrounding counties was held today in Mt. Gilead by Sergeant Hugo F. Moeller, head of the Marine Corps recruiting sub-station in Mansfield, and Sergeant Earl Kennedy, recruiting officer from Cleveland. The first was held at Bellville Monday.

Tomorrow the two will receive enlistments in Cardington, and on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday they will visit Waldo, Ashley and Delaware, respectively. Next week's schedule calls for the officers to be in Norwalk on Monday, Monroeville on Tuesday, Willard on Wednesday, Plymouth on Thursday, Bucyrus on Friday, and Marion on Saturday.

In each city the two officers will set up a one-day recruiting station in the local postoffice, and will accept enlistments from 10 a. m. to p. m.

They will examine all applicants for enlistment. Eligible for consideration, Sergeant Moeller said, are "healthy Americans between 17 and 30." He emphasized that a married man will be accepted if he presents an affidavit from his wife stating that she is not dependent on him beyond the pay of a private.

LEGISLATORS PLEDGE U. S. MEN, PLANES

Declare American Power Will Dominate All Battlefronts; Would Speed Chiang Help.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Congressmen called today for all-out material aid to China as the quickest way to stem Japan, and pledged meanwhile that millions of American men and thousands of American planes eventually would dominate every battlefront.

Senator Austin of Vermont, the assistant Republican leader, asked that every effort be made to get supplies and equipment to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's armies as the most effective immediate step.

"The Chinese already have shown their mettle and we must get aid through to them so they can help us regain lost ground," he told reporters.

Rep. Maas (R.-Minn.), colonel in the marine corps aviation reserve and ranking minority member of the house naval affairs committee, issued a statement declaring that the United States shared responsibility for the loss of Singapore because the fleet, temporarily cripped by the Pearl Harbor attack, could not help the defenders in time.

"But," he continued, "We promise our enemies this:

"The Yanks are coming. Their planes and their warships are coming. The tread of their feet by the millions will be heard in Asia, in Europe, in Africa. Their planes by the scores of thousands will darken the skies above Tokyo and Berlin; their rivers of tanks will pour across the battlefronts in every corner of the world, their hundreds of warships will sweep the seas: before this year is out, next year, the year after—in ever-increasing numbers, from a fresh... and powerful land that has only begun to fight."

President Roosevelt's only comment on the situation was in the same tone. He pledged to New Zealand Minister Walter Nash that the United States would not falter until the war in the Pacific was won.

As a stop-gap in the conflict, Senator George (D.-Ga.) envisioned the possible junction of Chinese and Indian manpower in Burma. Strength thus assembled, he said, could be used primarily to check the Japanese threat to Rangoon and the Burma road and later furnish the spearhead for an offensive down the Malay peninsula to recapture Singapore.

Preoccupied with the reverses in the western Pacific, legislators were prone to regard the Axis submarine attack on the Dutch West Indies island of Aruba Sunday as an attempt to create a diversion which might draw off some American naval strength from the Pacific.

There were some, however, who said it might be only the beginning of Axis raids to draw United States forces to the south for protection of Latin America.

Counting heavily on American air strength to match the submaring threat, Washington hailed an official report from Balboa that some of the vessels which participated in the Aruba attack probably had been sunk by planes.

Fire Destroys Beautiful Old Church

FOR a second time in its more than a century of creditable work in Mansfield the Congregational church edifice lies in ruins as the result of fire.

It was in August, 1870, when Mansfield was a small county seat town, that the thirty-five year old First Congregational church—on the same site—was destroyed by fire.

Immediate steps were taken to replace the old church on what was then West Market street, and the small congregation, under the pastorate of Rev. E. B. Fairfield, shouldered a $40,000 indebtedness in erecting a church building which has since stood beautifully and impressively as a monument to the devotion and determination of earlier members of the Congregational faith.

To those whose religious life centered around this historic institution the loss of their church home means much more than the intrinsic value of the property that has been destroyed and thoughts of the many joyful, sad and inspirational happenings of the two generations through which this church has served its people and its community will cling long in the memories of all who were associated with it.

But the same spirit of service and sacrifice which was evidenced by Mansfield Congregationalists of earlier days will undoubtedly again be in evidence and, despite the gloom with which these fine people now view the ruins of their beloved church, they may be expected to quickly turn to the task of planning for the future—as did their forebears who gathered around the ashes of their church home in 1870.

Some Must Fight, Others Must Work

WITH completion of yesterday's registration it is estimated that about 27,000,000 men in the United States, between the ages of 20 and 45, will be enrolled for possible military service.

It is impossible to even roughly guess how many of these will become a part of the nation's armed forces, but it is not too much to expect that every one of them—plus younger and older American citizens—will have some essential part to play in the war effort that is just getting into gear.

With the greater speed now being shown, and with increased training facilities, it is not unlikely that the end of this year will see approximately 4,000,000 men in the U. S. army, navy and marine service, with a potential total of 7,000,000 available in the 20-35 age range.

It must be remembered, however, that official estimates place a requirement of 15 to 20 civilian workers for every man in actual military service, and it is upon these producers of planes, ships, tanks, munitions, foodstuffs, and supplies of all kinds, that the nation's fighting forces are dependent.

While those whose duties will be in the fields of production, transportation, agriculture, financing, or other phases of civilian work, will escape, to some extent, the dangers, hardships and enforced discipline of military service, their obligation to their country will be no less, nor can they lightly shove aside responsibilities that will rest upon them.

In some quarters there has been a discouraging lack of appreciation of this fact, as in the instances of the Tacoma shipyards jurisdictional labor strike and recent shutdown, four times in three days, of a Detroit retooling operation because of a dispute over the status of one workman.

It was for such inconsequential causes as these that last year's war preparations were greatly retarded. But things that were condoned before entry of the United States into the war can no longer be tolerated and compulsion is no more justified in building up national manpower for war than it is in producing and distributing the mechanized equipment, munitions and supplies essential to the men who must do the actual fighting against enemy nations that have thus far shown superiority in numbers and in air power.

The time for dilly-dallying is past—in Washington and throughout the country—the actual danger to the Western Hemisphere and to the United States, is something that many Americans do not yet appear to fully realize.

And that danger, moreover, is not only to the east and west coasts but to all the territory lying between—which includes Ohio and Mansfield.

More Being Finger-Printed

AMONG the many things in which the war is bringing a changed attitude in America is that of universal finger-printing, toward which a majority favorable expression was given in a recent poll.

For a long time there was considerable objection to universal finger-printing, because of its association with criminal identification, but its value in making possible identification of accident or amnesia victims, and for other purposes, either in peace or war, argues strongly for a complete file.

Within the past several years finger-printing has been popularized by voluntary submission of public officials, members of civic groups, and school children, to the simple process of having their finger prints recorded and placed in government's files in Washington.

Those entering the armed service are finger-printed, as were participants in the first World war, and this is also routine practice in some defense industries.

Whatever stigma may have at one time been attached to finger-printing appears to have faded and a universal record of this kind may be a development of the not distant future.

Under Spur of Compulsion

AN OBSERVER reports that the American airplane industry is arranging to become, in two years, twice as big as the automobile industry became in forty years. The size of this new undertaking dawns slowly but powerfully on any informed person who lets his mind play over the material and human vastness of the auto industry.

It is unprecedented, but not impossible. Time is most important and American builders are not staggered by any job.

There's promise of an adequate supply of rubber by 1947—which, as some of the older residents realize, "will be here before you know it."

"Most of the sin of the world comes because people forget to consider the consequences of their behavior."—Dilworth Lupton.

Uncle Sam's Confusing Agencies

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

UNCLE SAM'S executive departments, agencies, administrations, bureaus, units, divisions, councils, boards, corporations, authorities and miscellaneous offices now number approximately 500. A list of them, with their addresses and telephone numbers, has just been handed out to the press.

Additions to the scroll have been too rapid of late for any standard work of reference, like the Congressional Directory, to include 'em all. The up-to-date list covers 13 single-spaced typewritten pages. I counted a page and then multiplied by 13 for my estimated total of 500.

Most of these outfits split up into sub-divisions—some into dozens of 'em and even the comparative peewees into several each.

They're scattered among 26 different telephone exchanges.

Legislative and judicial set-ups don't figure in the catalogue, which is executive exclusively. If anybody has business to transact with some congressional group or one of some court's creation he has to hunt elsewhere for his information.

One beauty of the situation is that it's customary to refer to the entire aggregation of executive administrations by their various initials. For example, suppose a visiting cattleman calls at the Office of Agricultural Defense Relations, known as the OADR, to discuss a problem that's worrying him.

The OADR quickly ascertains that, as a livestock raiser, he's inquired at the wrong counter, so it politely directs him to consult the AHD, and it's up to him to guess that AHD means the Animal Husbandry division.

Guessing Game.

Such institutions as the ICC and the TWA have been sufficiently advertised for the average citizen to have learned that they're the Interstate Commerce commission and the Tennessee Vally authority, respectively, but how's he to know that BEW's the Board of Economic Warfare or that the OFF's the Office of Facts and Figures?

Is it any wonder that out-of-town folk, in the capital on wartime missions, find themselves rattled? Why, native Washingtonians can't make sense out of the confusion. Indeed, the very government workers themselves are puzzled by it. An official of the NDMB (National Defense Mediation Board) dispatches one of his underlings on an errand to the NDRC (National Defense Research Committee) and the poor clerk hasn't an idea where to look for it.

Newspaper headwriters are largely responsible for the initialization evil. A name like the Office of Defense Health and Welfare Services doesn't fit conveniently into a front page headline, so the desk editor abbreviates it into ODHWS. It doesn't mean anything to the paper's readers, but these are emergency times, so they musn't be too critical.

The situation is complicated by the fact that a considerable number of the agencies in question are just moving or are soon to move out of Washington into towns in the sticks, under the presidential order scattering 'em, since the capital's so full up that it's suffocating.

Nevertheless, it's a severe jolt to a seeker after the NDMB's real moniker (National Defense Mediation Board) and whereabouts to locate its headquarters in the city's southwesterly area, only to find out that it's been transferred to the heart of Maryland. Some of 'em are going farther than that, too—away out to the midwest or more so.

Enemy Embassies?

There's some talk of taking over of enemy countries' Washington ambassadorial erstwhile headquarters for American governmental office occupancy.

Germany, Italy and Japan have had regular palaces for their diplomatic representatives' accommodation and they're pretty tempting, with the capital as cramped for room as it is. An embassy or legation building supposedly is on the soil of the nation that operated from it, locally. There's a traditional prejudice against the seizure of such premises, even when relations are broken.

It does strain diplomatic etiquette, though, to go on observing this rule in existing circumstances, with our government simply bursting for space to expand into and those sumptuous quarters standing vacant, on a trio of the fanciest sites in the capital.

Man About Manhattan

Had the Money

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Stories frequently are written about the large incomes and personal wealth of leaders of top-flight dance bands, such as Kay Kyser, Benny Goodman, Tommy Dorsey, Guy Lombardo and others.

The fact that many lesser known band leaders, working year in and year out without the fanfare that accompanies the coronation of a new king of swing, also accumulate modest fortunes was demonstrated recently by an incident involving such a leader—Clyde McCoy.

McCoy approached Eddie Weisfelt, manager of a Milwaukee theater, where he and his band were playing, and declared his intentions of buying some defense bonds as a contribution to the local sales drive.

"Okay, Clyde, how much you want?"

"One hundred thousand dollars worth," was the startling reply.

"How do you want to pay for them?" Weisfelt demanded.

"I've got a little cash," said McCoy, pulling huge wads of greenbacks out of his pockets, "and I can give you travelers checks for the rest."

Weisfelt, steadying himself, quickly explained that $50,000 was all a man could purchase in a single year, then put in a telephone call to arrange details. Next day McCoy bought to the limit of the law, cash on the barrel-head.

LESS than a decade ago McCoy was a trumpet player in a theater in Louisville, Ky., his home town. His talents were first observed by Gus Edwards, a booker, and shortly thereafter Clyde had his own band. Since then he has played engagements in every conceivable nook in the country, ballrooms, hotels, night clubs and hired halls.

He never has acquired the rating of a "name" dance band, but he has won a fine reputation with his individual style of using mutes to distort the tone of his cornet, best illustrated in the number with which he has become identified, "Sugar Blues."

Hep-cats who subscribe to the swing music of Goodman and Shaw rate McCoy's horn playing and the music of his band as "corny." But it seems to have been a profitable style.

AT THE Professional Children's School in New York Eric Roberts, the kid who plays the trilinqual Peck's Bad Boy in "Watch On the Rhine," has been shouting, "Shake the hand that shook the hand of the President of the United States"—and charging a penny for it. Reason: Eric recently sat next to FDR and had quite a chat with him when "Watch on the Rhine" gave a command performance at Washington.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Threats By Australia Compelled Britain to Battle for Singapore

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—It is now possible to reveal some of the inside diplomatic discussions regarding the defense of Singapore.

They transpired during the visit of Winston Churchill to Washington after Pearl Harbor. While he was in Washington, Foreign Minister Anthony Eden was in Moscow; and the British and Russians had worked out a policy for concentrating on the Russian and Mediterranean fronts.

This policy, incidentally, was almost identical with that expressed in the speech of Secretary Knox, namely that Hitler was our chief enemy. The only trouble with Knox was that apparently he did not know that meanwhile the policy had been changed—or at least was supposed to have been changed.

Here's the inside story: Only a few days after Churchill arrived, the Australians got word that the Far Eastern front was to be sacrificed, and almost tore the British Empire apart.

Churchill was arguing that it was going to be impossible to defend Singapore and the Dutch East Indies; that the Pacific was a tremendous ocean; that the Japanese could rattle round in it for a long time; that it was much wiser to defeat the German army on the Russian front and in the Mediterranean area. He contended that once the German army was crushed it would be a simple matter to clean up on Japan.

Admiral King Objects.

HOWEVER, Churchill ran into trouble immediately from Admiral Ernest King, forthright new commander of the U. S. fleet. King objected vigorously, said that Dutch oil, rubber, tin would keep Japan fighting for years; warned that Japan could then put the squeeze on India, while Hitler squeezed the British Middle East from the Syrian-Turkish end.

King also referred in critical, almost scathing terms, to the Libyan campaign in North Africa; said that this was just child's play; that these barren desert wastes meant nothing even if conquered.

Blunt-spoken as he was, however, Admiral King was not half as tough as the Australians. Their minister in Washington, Richard Casey, told Churchill point-blank that Singapore would have to be defended. He even went to the extreme length of warning that Australian troops would be yanked out of the Near East if the British government did not send reinforcements to Singapore.

Furthermore, the Australian prime minister even went to the extent of suggesting that if London was going to desert the Australian people by not defending Singapore, it would be perfectly possible for the Australian government to withdraw from the war and make a separate peace with Germany.

Faced with this double-barreled barrage from both the Australians and the U. S. navy, the British and Russians yielded. More reinforcements for the Far East were decided upon. By that time, however, it was too late to send heavy reinforcements. And the inside fact is that modern fighting planes did not arrive in Singapore until after Churchill returned to London—or about one month before Japan's all-out attack on the island.

Note: This inside history of Singapore is going to contribute to far closer ties between the U. S. A. and Australia.

MacArthur For President.

REPRESENTATIVE Lane Powers, Republican of New Jersey, launched a presidential boom for General MacArthur on Capitol Hill the other day, although it must be said he chose a strange place to do it—a closed-door meeting of the house appropriations committee.

The committee was considering the new $23-billion army appropriation, to provide thousands of additional tanks and other equipment for the war against the Axis. One of the first topics of discussion hinged on how much of the huge war fund would go for needed supplies in the Philippines. This was Powers' cue.

"Thank you, gentlemen," he said with a bow. "While we're on this subject, I wish to announce that my candidate for the presidency in 1944 is that great soldier, famous American and outstanding Republican, General Douglas MacArthur."

Democratic committee members applauded as vociferously as the Republicans. Later, Powers was asked why he picked a closed-door meeting to sound the keynote for MacArthur.

"That's part of the strategy," grinned the popular New Jerseyite. "Do you think I want to jinx the man by coming out for him publicly at this early date?"

Note: Among the nation's outstanding military heroes who have been elected president were: George Washington, Andrew Jackson, William Henry Harrison, Zachary Taylor, Ulysses S. Grant and Theodore Roosevelt. On the other hand, General McClellan failed in his race against Lincoln; General Leonard Wood failed after the World war; Admiral Dewey was talked about but made no real attempt after the Spanish-American war; and General Winfield Scott was defeated after the Mexican war of 1848.

Mail Bag.

M. L. S., Washington—The word "antimacassar" is derived from Macassar in the Dutch East Indies, which used to ship a lot of hair oil to Britain and the United States. The hair oil soiled the backs of chairs and sofas, so tidy housewives invented the "antimacassar," a white doily to protect the furniture. . . . J. S. V., Seattle—It was "House Resolution 37" of the California state legislature which politely asked the Emperor of Japan "not to take any action or do anything drastic until . . . the legislature may make up its collective mind." The resolution was introduced by liberal assemblymen in disgust at slowness in passing "appropriations to continue the state guard." The legislature actually passed the resolution, apparently unaware of its content, and adjourned for the Christmas holidays leaving the state guard up in the air. B. E. W., Baltimore, Md. — The women's auxiliary corps of the army has nothing to do with Civilian Defense. If created, it will invite enlistment of women between 21 and 45, to serve with the army, with rank, uniform, pay, full time service, and military discipline. At first, 12,200 women will be accepted.

They will be formed into companies, and one company will be attached to each large military encampment, where the members will serve as clerks, machine operators, telegraph operators, pharmacists, dieticians, hostesses, theater employes, stewardesses, etc.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—This war is a bigger pain in the neck to the weather bureau than it is to most government departments.

You'd think, since the bureau no longer has to hand the public more than a little quickie 12-hour forecast (the regular daily forecasts used to be for 26 hours) and doesn't go in any more trying to put out those "long-rangers," that it could take this war easy.

JUST the reverse is true. The weather bureau's troubles started a long time back when exchange weather information from continental Europe and other places was blacked out. But those were halcyon days compared to what Chief Francis W. Reichelderfer's boys are up against now.

In the first place, the navy from Iceland to Singapore counts heavily on the weather forecasts. The bomber ferry services from Australia to Cairo depend upon them. And from Alaska to Pensacola, the air training schools and military air bases need weather as it was never needed before.

When armies and navies go out to battle these days, the weather is almost as important a factor as the supply lines or whether the powder magazines are stocked. Hitler has proved that more than once and perhaps at last to his own undoing.

But all of this wouldn't make so much difference. The United States' meteorologists are tops, can handle that added responsibility.

What does make a difference is that WITHOUT making the weather forecast public, the weather bureau has to take care of the scores of civilian industries and activities that are keyed to the winds and the rains and the snows.

WHAT would happen to power or telephone or telegraph companies, if they could not hold their line crews in readiness to repair the damage done by a howling winter blizzard or a spring flood? What would happen to transportation companies if they had no warning that the elements were going to blow their schedules to pieces? What would happen to water supplies and dams and aqueducts if the cloudbursts were permitted to fall without an advance word of the onslaught?

The weather bureau has gotten around these problems—but what a job. They are "advising" the affected companies. They don't give them the weather forecast, they just advise what precautions it might be well to take.

That means that where newspapers and radio used to carry the news to all, the weather bureau now has to treat with each individually and be positive that only known persons get that "advice."

TODAY IN HISTORY

The man conceded to have been the first American to gain world renown, Benjamin Franklin, was born this day in Boston in 1706. Franklin was a statesman, an inventor and a man of letters and is sometimes said to have been a full century ahead of his time. Born and bred in poverty and obscurity, he was the 17th child of a maker of soap and candles. He died at the age of 84.

Sleep With Windows Shut.

A heating engineer from the University of Minnesota is the authority for this. Sleep nine months out of the year with your bedroom windows closed. You'll not only reduce your fuel costs, but you'll cut down the possibilities of colds, sinus infections and other disorders.

And here's why—one window in your bedroom, weatherstripped and with a storm window on and closed, will infiltrate enough fresh air into your bedroom (provided your bedroom door is left ajar) to make sleeping healthful and comfortable for four adults in that room. He says a house "breathes" just as a person does and without the doors and windows being open.—Minneapolis Star-Journal.

A Farmer's Diary

War Time Sunrise

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

TO GET them up by War time their mother yodels the tune of an army bugle. Bare feet hit the floor and sleepy-eyed, pajama-clad youngsters come tumbling down the attic stairs. The school bus swoops up the road with headlights flaming, turns around on our barn bridge and goes back to the village with the first load. The chickens are hardly off their roosts.

Today I drove to town immediately after the school bus . . . a distance of 12 miles. The village streets were lighted. Through the windows I saw people moving. Many business places were open and the tread of workmen's feet had a familiar sound upon the pavement. A low zone of fog lay across the bosom of the river. I heard the roar of the rising stream over the concrete dam, concealed in mist.

From the first high hilltop to the north, I saw the hint of dawn. In that distant, cold gray sky, Venus rose above the trees that appeared like tiny bushes. Just beyond—perhaps two hours high, the thin crescent moon rode silently. The entire outer rim was visible, enclosing the shadowy portion.

Just as silently, pointed purple ribbons spread westward from a single point which slowly changed to old rose, mauve, soft pink and then to flaming scarlet at the base. I turned out on the berm and sat a few moments, watching.

Even with silent wintry cold all about, I felt the pulsing warmth and color of sunrise. I felt the stir it brought to a sleeping earth—the transformation no artist can ever capture. The valley mists rolled away. The day seemed as new and wonderful as though it were the first I had ever looked upon.

Cave man from his hanging cliff looked on this sight—and wondered: rude plainsmen knelt and worshipped — American pioneers lifted up their hearts and were reverently thankful.

"Day—faster and more fast,
O'er night's brim, day boils at last,
Boils, pure gold, from the cloud cup's rim,
Where spurting and suppressed, it lay.
But not a froth flake touched the rim of the eastern cloud an hour away . . . till the whole sunrise, not to be suppressed flickered in bounds, grew gold, and overflowed the world."—Browning.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

BY

"The Authority on Authorities"

TIMING RIGHT IS VITAL

IN WAR, football or almost any other form of competition, correct timing is a vital factor. Probably no game shows the operation of the principle more clearly than bridge. Doing first those things which should be done first, so that you can do later the things which by then are prepared for, is the essence of a great share of the most successful play of the cards. Change the order of events and you change the entire result on many an occasion.

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	Pass	2 ♦
Pass	Pass	2 ♥	2 ♠
3 ♥	Dbl

After East's strong vulnerable overcalling, with a "reverse" bid of the higher-ranking spades at the range of three, West was justified in making his very narrow double in a match-point duplicate game. The same general bidding occurred at several tables, so that the way that South made out depended on whether he got set one trick or two. If only one, he would beat the score of those pairs against which East managed to make 3-Diamonds.

When the diamond J was led at a couple of tables playing 3-Hearts doubled, East won with the A and followed with the diamond Q to the K. Then the differences came. One declarer took two top trumps in the dummy, killing all chance to hold his set to a single trick. His one remaining try was to play low when East later led a small club, hoping East had the K-J, but of course that didn't work.

Better play, with nice timing, was by Joseph Norris, one of the soundest cardsmen in New York's social duplicates. Under his plan, all he had to do was find West with three spades and not over four hearts. After winning the diamond K, he led the spade 7 to the 8 and Q. East cashed the diamond 10 and switched to the club 7. The Q won that and the spade 6 was led to the 9 and A. The club 9 was taken by the A, the heart K scored and the spade 9 led from dummy, ruffed by the heart 4, dropping the spade K and setting up the 10. After the heart A, Mr. Norris led to the Q and called the spade 10. On that he discarded the club 4, and West had to use his heart J to ruff the trick. The heart 9 naturally took the last trick.

Success of this line of play was due entirely to starting the spades before the hearts weretouched. Otherwise there would have been no entry for the fourth spade.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, Feb. 18.

UNDER a very expansive and broadening influence from major planets this should prove to be a day in which excellent progress may be made in regaining lost ground, in whichever direction the foundations seem to have been undermined. This in business as well as personal relations. The stress, however, is laid on new creative projects, with changed plans and purposes, involving travel, writings, communications, agencies and fresh associations.

Those whose birthday it is should be most propitiously anchored in a year of progress and opportunity. Under expansive, friendly and productive influences there should be excellent opportunity for retrieving old losses or gaining ground in entirely new objectives of ambition and scope. Travel, change, writings fresh contracts and mainly the support of those in power and place are to be utilized for enhancing the fortunes. The love element is not wanting in the planetary scheme

A child born on this day should be splendidly endowed with all the forces and faculties for lasting success, with progress, good fortune, as well as corresponding social, affectional and professional aspirations, happily realized.

Pitfalls of Love

(A sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

In my own excitement, I had not realized that the humming of the first notes of the reversed scroll of music also had thrilled Olina.

"Listen, Aunt Madge!" she said. "There isn't a note missed."

Then in her pretty, well-trained voice, but with a feeling I never had noticed before in her singing, she sang the unforgettable words of the old folk song beloved by so many people.

"Oh, ye'll take the high road, and I'll take the low road. And I'll be in Scotland afore ye."

I put down my rising excitement with a firm hand.

"That is the complete script?" I asked.

"Yes, the notes begin and end there," she answered. "But what does it mean?"

"Let me see the picture again, please," I said, and when she handed it over I scanned it again, seeing what I had missed before—that a dotted line, so faint as to be almost undecipherable, ran from the last letter of the word Scotland down and across the page, ending at the pictured gate to the house I was sure was meant to represent The Larches.

At the end of the line was some symbol of two or three strokes, which might or might not represent an arrow.

I did not understand the instinct which made me decide to keep this particular angle to myself until I had more time to study the picture, and I looked over at Olina with a suggestion that had come to me just before the dotted line had switched my attention to the pictured gate of The Larches.

"The 'high road' might mean that airplane hovering overhead," I said. 'Ye'll take the high road.'"

"But I didn't come over by air the last time," Olina answered. "I very emphatically took the low road—the lowest road—the hold of that ship which was worse than any old pirate craft."

A shudder ran over her slender body, and I knew she was visualizing, as I was, that horrible experience which so nearly ended in tragedy.

For only my father's foresight and wisdom, supported by the brave men who served under him so faithfully, had foiled the conspirators who had wrested Olga from her throne, and brought her, with her daughter and her maid, to America in the hold of a ship they had stolen.

The desperadoes had meant to use Olga and Olina as hostages for the enormous ransom they had persuaded Philip Veritzen to pay for them. But just in time my father's men rescued the queen and princess from the men who intended to kill them, as well as Philip's son Noel, who carried the ransom, as soon as the money should be transferred to them.

"Poor, faithful Felice!" Olina said, with evident poignant memory of the maid who had given her life in her attempt to save Olga's emeralds.

"It's no use looking back, Olina," I said, compassionately. "It won't help anything."

"I know," she said. "I would better get back to this picture. If he means me by taking the high road, he's made a mistake, as I said just now. It was no high road that I took."

With a memory of Marion's code letters before my mental camera, I spoke slowly.

"The music was reversed, wasn't it?"

She stared at me for a instant, then nodded her head in comprehension.

"I see," she said. "It means just the opposite, that I took the low road, and whoever drew this took the high road, and will be in Scotland afore me. But where do you think he means by Scotland?"

"That's what I'm going to try to study out," I told her, still intuitively refraining from any mention of The Larches.

THEATERS

Hilarious Comedy.

When a sophisticated woman newspaper columnist on international affairs meets a sports writer and the two decide to wed despite their totally different backgrounds there is fireworks in "Woman of the Year," the Spencer Tracy-Katharine Hepburn picture showing at the Ohio. Miss Hepburn plays the writer who knows her diplomats but is ignorant of the popular American pastime of baseball. Tracy appears as the sports writer with old-fashioned notions about a woman's place being in the home. The cast includes Reginald Owen, Fay Bainter, Gladys Blake, and Roscoe Karns.

Emotional Role.

Playing the beautiful and heartless wife of a southern banker, Bette Davis gives one of the greatest emotional roles in her career in "The Little Foxes," showing at the Madison. Laid at the turn of the century the picture deals with the wife's plot to obtain millions of dollars through a cotton mill project even if she has to sacrifice husband and daughter to do it. Herbert Marshall plays the husband and Teresa Wright plays the daughter. Richard Carlson and several members of the original New York cast are in the production. Jeffrey Lynn and Jane Wyman in "The Body Disappears," furnish the second attraction.

Dramatic Story.

"One Foot In Heaven," with Fredric March, Martha Scott, and Gene Lockhart, is showing at the Ritz. The picture deals with the life of a country minister and his family from the time he brings a bride to his first parish. Betty Grable is featured in "I Wake Up Screaming," with Victor Mature and Carol Landis.

Fun Fest.

Romance is threaded through the hilarious story of "Look Who's Laughing," the Park attraction with Fibber McGee and Molly, Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy. Lucille Ball furnishes the romance in the story which revolves around the woes of McGee as a small town's leading citizen when he tries to bring prosperity to the community. "Spooks Run Wild," with Bela Lugosi, is the second feature.

WEDDING SOLEMNIZED AT BAPTIST CHURCH

Miss Leona Mae Beer Becomes Bride of John M. Moffett, of Lucas, on Feb. 14; Dinner at Beer Home.

MARRIAGE of Miss Leona Mae Beer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul F. Beer, Route 4, and John M. Moffett, son of E. A. Moffett, of Lucas, was solemnized at 10 a. m. on Feb. 14 in the Park Avenue Baptist church. Rev. A. L. Linder officiated. Attendants were Miss Belle Bainter, of Mansfield, and T. Arthur White, also of this city.

Mrs. Moffett's street length wedding dress was powder blue, cut on princess lines. Sleeves are three-quarter length. Pockets are heart-shaped and the bride's only jewelry was a gold heart-shaped locket. Her shoulder corsage was of white roses tied with silver ribbon. A street-length dress of mint green made princess style was worn by Miss Bainter. She had a shoulder corsage of yellow and pink roses, pink and lavender sweet peas, tied with jade green ribbon.

Dinner was served at noon at the home of the bride's parents. Guests were the attendants and neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Forest Dill. Mr. and Mrs. Moffett are residing in a new home in Lucas.

The bride was graduated from Madison high school and is employed by the Hoff Manufacturing company in this city. Mr. Moffett is employed by the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company.

Columbus Girl Will Be Bride Of Mansfielder

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Kirkpatrick, of Columbus, are announcing the approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Shirley Hall Wise to Lee Junior Humphrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilber Lee Humphrey, R. D. 6. The couple will be united in a candlelight service which will take place Friday evening, Feb. 20, at 8:30 o'clock in the Burgess avenue United Brethren church in Columbus.

Rev. E. E. Burtner will officiate. Attendants will be Miss Wilma E. Humphrey and Charles Daniel Humphrey, of Mansfield, sister and brother of the bridegroom. Following the ceremony a reception will be held at the Kirkpatrick home.

Miss Wise was graduated from North high school in Columbus and attended the College of Arts-Journalism at Ohio State university for one year. She is now associated with the editorial staff of the Columbus citizen. Mr. Humphrey is a student in the department of dairy husbandry at Ohio State university. He is a graduate of Lexington high school.

Speaker Gives Talk On India At Guild Meet

Central Methodist church Guild members held a meeting Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Weimer, Bartley avenue. Mrs. Robert Lane, Miss June Shires and Mrs. R. M. James were associate hostesses. Thirty-four members and two guests, Mrs. M. L. Bayer and Mrs. W. M. Wappner, were in attendance.

Mrs. Arthur Owen, president, conducted the business session. Mrs. J. J. Swisher led the devotions. Mrs. Leroy Strain gave a short talk on the "Importance of Prayer." Mrs. Grant Ward introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Wappner, who gave an interesting talk on "India."

Luncheon was served buffet style from a long table attractively decorated with lighted tapers and flowers. Mrs. Wayne Miller and Mrs. Swisher presided at the table. Plans were made to give a guest night party in the church parlors on March 16. Mrs. I. E. Allmendinger will be hostess for the affair.

Party Honors Anita Smith, Bride-Elect

Miss Anita Smith, bride-elect of Corp. Dean Chatlain, was honored with a linen shower recently at the home of Miss Ethel Mae Bogan, 287 Vennum avenue. Miss Jennie Lou Gannaway and Miss Bogan were hostesses for the party which was attended by eleven guests.

Bridge was the diversion of the evening. Prizes were won by Miss Adeline Wilging and the honoree. Luncheon was served at a long table attractively decorated with lighted tapers and pink and white appointments and centered with an arrangement of sweetpeas. The honored guest was presented with many gifts at the close of the evening.

Miss Smith, who resides at 127 Rowland avenue, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Smith of Akron, and Corp. Chatlain, who is now stationed at Ft. Knox, Ky., is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Chatlain, Cedar street. The couple will exchange nuptial vows on Feb. 22 at the home of the bride-elects grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Smith in Loudonville.

Mrs. G. A. Hout Entertains Club

Lavender and yellow served as the attractive color scheme for the dessert-luncheon which was given recently by Mrs. George Hout, Sturges avenue, for 16 members of the Garden Study club. Centerpiece for the table was an arrangement of yellow roses and lavender sweetpeas.

For the program, Mrs. Clarence Lisle gave "Information Please," and Mrs. B. W. Forkner discussed "The Beginning of Horticulture." A talk on "Garden Tools and Their Care" was given by Mrs. R. K. Clark.

PIANO SELECTIONS PRESENTED FOR CLUB

Mrs. L. J. Smith Gives Biographical Sketches, Plays Compositions for Little Flower Study Club Monday.

MRS. L. J. SMITH entertained with a very enjoyable program of piano selections by contemporary composers when 12 members of the Little Flower Study club met Monday at the home of Mrs. James Ehalt, 448 Edgewood road. Numbers played by Mrs. Smith were by winners of the entertaining and classical music contest sponsored by Etude magazine in 1940.

Preceding each selection or group of selections, Mrs. Smith gave a biographical sketch of the composer. She played "Viennese Dance," by Thusnelda Biresak; "Dallying In a Diner" and "Dancer In Blue" by Walter Wallace Smith; "Valse Rubato," by William C. Steere; "Frivolette" and "Three Moods and a Theme," by Gustav Klemm.

Mrs. Jerome Hanley, president of the club, presided at the beautifully appointed table when light refreshments were served. On March 2, the club will have a dinner at the home of Mrs. John Daley on West Third street.

Orchestra, Violin Pupils Present Recital At Hotel

From the opening selections by the Mansfield Little Symphony orchestra through the concluding violin solo, the program sponsored by Eugene Weinberger in the ballroom of the Mansfield-Leland hotel last evening was thoroughly enjoyed by the more than 350 persons in attendance. This recital by the orchestra and pupils of Mr. Weinberger is considered one of the outstanding musical events of the year.

In addition to the large number of Mansfielders in the audience, there were persons from Chicago, Ill., Galion, Plymouth, Crestline, Springfield and Dayton. Several encores were requested by the audience. Violinists on the program were James Wolf, Edwin Lockwood, Robert Kraus, Fritz Schenk, Karl Kraus, Edith Snodgrass, Rolland Lenhart, Marilyn Taylor, Richard DeSanze, Betty Shirey, Mary K. Berry, Charles Kenny, Judson Dolle, Joseph Pival, Gladys Arnhold, Gale Shriner, Margaret Berry, Wesley Smith, and Eloise Harbaugh.

Piano accompanists for the various selections were Florence Gernhardt, Gladys Arnholt, Edna Olin, Otillia Myers, Mrs. Mary Shirey, and Vida C. Smith.

Home-Mixed Syrup Relieves Coughs Quickly

Saves Big Dollars. So Easy! No Cooking.

The surprise of your life is waiting for you, in your own kitchen, when it comes to the relief of coughs due to colds. In just a moment, you can mix a cough syrup that gives you about 4 times as much for your money, and is amazing for quick results.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's no trouble at all. Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle. Add your syrup, and you have a full pint of really wonderful cough medicine. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time, and children love it.

This home mixture takes right hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and quickly eases soreness and difficult breathing. You'll say it's astounding in its action.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

POSTOFFICE AT BUCYRUS DOES PEAK BUSINESS

Receipts Hit All Time High of $78,000 In 1941, Up 30 Per Cent.

BUCYRUS—Receipts at Bucyrus post office reached a new peak in 1941 when $78,210.89 in business was transacted, according to Postmaster Carl Young. The total receipts was $7,486.99 higher than those of the previous year.

Money order business, which is not included in receipts, totaled $214,815.01 for orders issued and $314,454.93 for orders paid.

New marks have been set each year for the last six years, beginning with $61,680 in 1935 and increasing each year to a total of nearly 30 per cent.

A new mark for a single day's handling came during the Christmas period when 42,000 pieces of mail were received and dispatched in one day.

COURT NEWS IN ASHLAND COUNTY

ASHLAND—Charging that rules of navigation were violated Arthur E. Miller of Oak Harbor has filed suit for damages of $1,907 in Ashland common pleas court against Donald Clark of Ashland. Miller asks $1,227 for damages to his charter cruiser and the amount of $630 which he claims he lost in contracts for excursions and fishing trips which he had to cancel after a collision between his boat and a cruiser owned by Clark on Lake Erie, June 21, 1941.

Jurors in Ashland common pleas court continued hearing testimony today in the suit of H. E. Russell, doing business as the Williamson Ashland Furnace company, vs. H. B. Vanosdall and H. N. Vanosdall, doing business as H. B. Vanosdall and Brother, a parenership, et al. In the suit, which started yesterday, the plaintiff seeks judgment of $126.92 for an account for labor and materials and foreclosure of a mechanic's lien.

A temporary injunction has been granted in common pleas court in the suit of R. R. Teeter and Harry E. Brubaker against Paul C. Fritzinger, D. M. Smith, and Walter Gannon, in which the plaintiffs seek a permanent injunction to prevent Fritzinger from building a residence on Edgehill avenue in Kinnaman Heights in violation of a building restriction of 85 feet from the front line of premises. The petition alleges that Smith is principal contractor and Gannon is sub-contractor for a residence which is being erected only 55 feet from the line.

Action for foreclosure of a delinquent land tax certificate has been filed in common pleas court by Karl K. Kick, Ashland county treasurer, vs. Frank Jackson, et al. The petition seeks foreclosure on 31.50 acres in Jackson township and lots in Albion.

WINS AWARD

GALION—For his display of a passenger train patterned after the Southwestern Limited of the New York Central system, Donald Noonan of 120 North Pierce street, Galion, was awarded a six-inch gold trophy at the Philadelphia national model show, held in Town Hall there, Feb. 6 to 14.

Noonan also displayed a freight engine, several cars and caboose, and included a depressed flat car with an anti-aircraft gun mounted. His trophy was received primarily on his passenger train equipment which is all hand-made and modeled to scale. Building these trains and railroad equipment has been Mr. Noonan's hobby for the past 12 years.

GO TO JAIL

GALION — Two Galion men, Russell Faile and Lloyd Cummins, were committed to the Crawford county jail Monday after being tried in Mayor William Amann's court on charges of being drunk and disorderly.

Faile was fined $10 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in the jail. Cummins received the same jail sentence plus $25 and costs.

SHELBY MAYOR MAKES REPORT ON GAS RATES

Tells Council Letters Sent To Eleven Cities Seeking Information.

SHELBY—Mayor W. R. Morris reported to city council Monday night that the gas rate committee appointed at the last meeting had not yet had a meeting.

He said letters had been sent to eleven cities asking for gas rate ordinances. So far about half of the cities have replied, Morris said. As soon as the answers are received the committee will meet to determine a fair gas rate for Shelby.

Councilmen David Kinsell and Wilbur Workman were excused from the session.

A resolution was adopted thanking the Shelby Co-Operative club for sponsoring a drive here to erect street signs at all street intersections. The project was completed at a cost of approximately $700.

A petition from Al Bourgeois asking extension of a sanitary sewer on Walnut street was received and filed. The city engineer was instructed to prepare estimates on the costs of the project.

Council discussed the construction of a sidewalk on the west side of Mohican street between Main street and Whitney avenue.

Mayor Morris asked council to consider installation of a traffic light at the intersection of Mack and Tucker avenues as part of the traffic safety program here.

NEW WASHINGTON PASTOR HOLDS MEETING AT CRESTLINE MONDAY

CRESTLINE — Pastors of the New Washington local conference of the American Lutheran church and their wives took communion at the annual Pre-Lenten Retreat held Monday in Trinity Lutheran church.

The communion service was held in the morning with Rev. Charles Lange of Crestline as liturgist. Rev. Carl Lieder of Bucyrus delivered the sermon. Miss Irene Nungesser was at the organ console.

A book review by Rev. Henry Young of Galion followed the Lenten service.

Rev. Walter F. Koepplin of Ashland presided for business and the discussion of pastorial problems which opened the afternoon session.

Rev. Lange presented "The Searchlight of the Ten Commandments on Modern Life." Rev. Paul Gerlach of New Washington gave a written presentation on the Scripture passage.

All meetings are held in Crestline and at the next one, March 30. Repentance will be the subject of the morning devotions which will be in charge of Rev. Lange.

SEEK TO HALT OUSTER MOVE

Unions at Willard Petition Council To Reinstate Two Policemen.

WILLARD — City council had under consideration today petitions bearing more than 1,000 signatures seeking the reinstatement of two veteran policemen ousted from the force by the city fathers last month.

The petitions were presented to council last night by the Federated Shop Crafts of the B. & O. railroad and other labor unions at a meeting attended by a crowd of more than 200 persons.

Council at a meeting Feb. 2 voted to replace Marshal C. D. Bohn and Patrolman Homer Sherbundy, both of whom have held the positions for more than 17 years.

Mayor E. L. Wolff named William Vogel, former Huron county deputy, chief, and A. S. Whitcum, a butcher, as their successors, after council refused to confirm the appointment of Bohn and Sherbundy. The change becomes effective March 1.

The petitions asked that council reconsider the action taken last month and reinstate Bohn and Sherbundy.

Arthur McDowell, president of the railroad union, told council that the petitioners maintained that "it was not fair to dismiss the two men without first giving them a hearing."

Council accepted the petitions without comment but agreed to consider the petitions.

Councilman L. H. Whisler, a physician, and only one of the six members that is not a railroad man, D. C. Smith and J. H. Garrett, are old members of council. Elected last fall were B. J. Kinsey, Dale Williams and Frank Gales.

NAMED GALION AIR RAID CHIEF

GALION—The appointment of Charles Lauer, local patrolman, as chief air raid warden, was made Monday by Mayor William Amann, director of civilian defense here.

Enrollment for duty in the Galion council of civilian defense is urged by Mayor Amann who states that the Galion enrollment will be forwarded to Washington not later than Wednesday of this week. Up to Monday, there were only 110 persons registered, and most of these are women. There is need for more men as some 100 will be assigned to the air raid division.

Here's How You Can Help!

TELL YOUR (Name of Newspaper) Newspaper Boy to Deliver 10c Defense Stamps to Your Home Regularly, Each Week.

Our enemies are striking fast and hard. Behind their treachery is FEAR. They know that they are DOOMED if America's might is mobilized in time. Might means guns and tanks and planes. These cost money. Not millions, but billions. Much of this money must be borrowed. It must come from the people—from YOU! That is the American way—the volunteer way.

Volunteer your dimes and dollars NOW by buying Defense Bonds and Stamps. Stamp 'em out with Stamps—blast 'em with Bonds.

But do it NOW, while your money is needed most. Never let the words "too little . . . too late" be said of US. Bombs are falling on American land—on American men, women, and children. For all of us the hour of destiny has struck. Give our armed forces the guns and ships and planes they must have to "stamp 'em out" and safeguard your life, your home.

BACK UP THE BOYS BEHIND THE BOYS

REMEMBER that your newspaper carrier is an Official U.S. Defense Agent for Defense Stamp Sales. When he calls to collect this week, give him your order for as many 10-cent Defense Savings Stamps as you will require each week. Your signed order will be all that is necessary to have him deliver and collect for as many stamps as you wish each week until ordered by you to discontinue. With your first stamps, you will receive a free album which will hold 187 10-cent Defense Stamps and which, when filled, can be exchanged, with 5 cents, for an $18.75 Defense Bond. If held until maturity (10 years), this $18.75 bond will be worth $25.00. In other words, you will receive $4.00 for every $3.00 you loan Uncle Sam now—for that, too, is the American way.

IMPORTANT! If you have already ordered Defense Stamps delivered to your home, now is the time to have your carrier INCREASE YOUR ORDER. Buy more if you can.

GEN. JOHNSON: Warn Plane Output Behind FDR's Goal

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON— Wendell Willkie wants to bring Douglas MacArthur home and put him in sole command of our whole armed forces, under the president.

Gen. Johnson.

The trouble with that is that no man ever walked on two legs who was big enough for that job. Our greatest misfortune now is that the president tried it too long.

As Willkie suggests, war means the nation in arms — every human occupation mobilized for the "single purpose of victory." That alone in a great industrial country is a task so huge as to be almost beyond the limits of human vision. Yet it is increasingly the greatest essential to victory.

A supreme military commander is dependent upon it, but it is also a civilian function and no man is big enough to undertake both It meshes in closely with military operations which have themselves grown so great that a single commander for army, navy and air corps operating clear round the globe cannot undertake intelligently to direct them.

Cutting this field down to the military forces alone based on this continent but operating from New Zealand to Murmansk, you have too much territory for less than a superman

We learned all these lessons in 1918, and discarded them in 1939 Yet it is strange how the force of circumstance is slowly taking us straight back to the old model.

For the mobilization of industry we had a war industries board composed of about an equal number of soldiers and civilian experts. Donald Nelson's WPB is not quite that yet but it has moved miles toward it and is moving closer.

For the fighting forces in the field, the so-called "zone" of operations, we had one supreme commander, General Pershing, reporting to the president. That was surely a big enough job for one man to tackle, and while it did not work out to perfection always, there is little to criticize about the general result.

That is the kind of job for a man like MacArthur — freed from the aggravating, time-consuming of two other jobs, equally without precedent in size and responsibility.

In between the great American base and arsenal and the troops on the firing line was the great service of supply, commanded by General Harbord. It was his task to see that the vast outpouring of munitions from both our home and foreign factories were moved up to the fighting front just when and where Pershing wanted them, that commercial depots were established, railroads built and the front line never hampered by lack of any of these necessary services

That was another load off Pershing's back. All he had to do was to plan and to fight

Finally, there was the great assembling ground of the armies at home, place of training, procurement of troops, their organization and transport, the relationships between the war industries board, the military and other services and all the work-a-day routine and excellent house-keeping, needed to create, munition and transport, the rapidly forming new divisions.

This "zone of the interior" was the job of General Peyton C March. He also kept a sort of general eye on all progress, both here and abroad and the work in each of the other three zones and kept the president informed in succinct reports of what was going on everywhere.

That, to one who has been through the mill, seems to be the ideal organization for our task ahead.

It is not the job of a kibitzer to be suggesting personnel but we have a good start—Marshall and Nelson where they are, MacArthur for supreme field command and Somervell for "zone of the interior."

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Speaking For Myself.

I would like to say a few words today on the subject of Donald Duck and the Congress of the United States.

As a movie fan and as a taxpayer, I am vastly irked by the news that the old boys in Washington have reneged on paying $80,000 to Walt Disney for the work, talent and celluloid he put into the making of a Donald Duck short, at the urgent request of the Treasury department of the United States. I am sorry that the old boys found it expedient to class Mr Disney with eurythmic dancers and other expenditures clearly deserving of the beef. Of course, Donald Duck in a headline is an attention-getter, and $80,000 is a good round number to flash in front of the taxpayers, most of whom never see that much money in a lifetime—but when you are talking about billions, as congress has been doing, it is quite a small square number, and since it is the total of a bill for something the government bought, a check should be written for that amount and dispatched at once to Mr. Disney.

Kilgallen

To me it seems as absurd not to pay Walt Disney his $80,000 as it would be to order 50,000 plates from Henry Ford and then say, on delivery: "Of course we will not pay you for these because if you were patriotic you would give them to us for nothing."

Seems a little like the old cartoon of the policeman swiping an apple from the fruit stand, doesn't it?

I think Hollywood is either slipping or is immersed in war effort to an unwonted degree of seriousness and realism It's been half a year at least since somebody came forth with a new word like "oomph" "glim" or "ping." Won't be long before there aren't any nice plump jolly girl swing singers on Broadway or in the niteries Wynn Murray went and dieted herself down to practically ingenue size, and now Frances Faye has gone from hefty to sylphy. I can see their point, but it does detract some from the local color.

I don't know how the rest of the country reacted, but found myself thrown decidedly out of gear during the first few days of wartime daylight savings. In fact, I am just beginning to recover. First of all, I forgot to turn my watch forward (forward is the word, isn't it?) which made me an hour late for all my engagements Monday and lent further substance to the rather widely held belief that I am a mad impetuous flibbertygibbet. Late Monday afternoon I realized that something was amiss, and hastily did what I do every Spring—I turned my watch back an hour. That made me two hours removed from the rest of the city, in sort of a little complicated world of my own.

Well, now I have it all straightened out. But my subconscious is still operating on the old, or nonsaving time. I find myself wide awake at bedtime and sleepy as all get out when the alarm clock rings.

LAUNCH PLAN TO DRAFT WORKERS FOR WAR JOBS

Selective Service Officials and Employment Service Use Voluntary Basis.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Selective service and the U. S. employment service today undertook a joint program to "draft" workers on a voluntary basis for vital war industries that face labor shortages.

Officials said appeals to the patriotism of the workers and their employers, the lure of high wages, and, possibly, threats of induction into the army would be the only instruments for shifting men from non-essential war jobs.

But they hinted that if that program fails, congress may be asked eventually to authorize compulsory assignment of workers to jobs where they can contribute most to the war effort.

This was found necessary in Great Britain, and some of the conditions which brought it on, it was said, already are developing in this country—tendencies among employers to "pirate" badly-needed workers from competitors and among workers to "shop around" for the easiest, highest-paid jobs.

Basis of the new program will be a detailed inventory by selective service of the training and specific skills of all of its eventual 48,000,000 registrants — virtually every man in the United States between 18 and 65 years of age.

Questionnaires will be sent to the 9,000,000 men who completed registration yesterday in the third national enrollment of manpower within a 16-month period, to the 17,000,000 already registered, except for those now in the army, and to another 22,000,000 in the age groups 18 through 19 and 45 through 64 and who will register next spring or early summer.

Selective service officials reported that the third enrollment ended successfully last night.

IMMUNIZATION ACTION DELAYED

School Board Gets Diphtheria Request But Defers Decision on Compulsory Inoculation.

A request from Dr W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, that all pupils in Mansfield schools be immunized against diphtheria was received favorably last night by the board of education, but the board deferred action on the request.

Although members of the board and Supt. of Schools W. L Miller agreed that pupils should be treated to combat diphtheria, the superintendent suggested that a compulsory immunization order be withheld until school is out so that pupils who react to the treatment will not miss classes.

The board indicated it would take action on the health commissioner's request shortly, but would not place the order into effect until next summer, possibly just before school starts next fall.

The board several years ago began requiring pupils and teachers to be vaccinated against smallpox.

Dr. Wild, who submitted his request to the board through a letter read by Supt Miller, said schools in Shiloh, Lexington, Ontario, and Bellville recently set up programs for immunizing pupils against diphtheria.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — John Q Adams, former electrician at the Lafayette school is asking $75,000 damages from the Cleveland board of education, Police Inspector David L. Cowels and three other defendants. He alleges he was held in jail 14 days for unlawful possession of dynamite and later acquitted.

WAR AID IN SCHOOL GARDEN PROGRAM IN CITY THIS YEAR

Mansfield boys and girls who compete this year in the annual school garden contest sponsored by the city's garden clubs and the board of education will be urged to grow vegetables as well as flowers so they will have a part in the nation's program

The board of education at its meeting last night voted to change the contest rules to provide prizes for pupils who grow outstanding vegetables and flowers. Previously contestants grew only flowers.

The board chose Harold A. Bruce, one of its members, and Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller as a committee to work with the garden clubs in revising the contest rules.

"In the light of present circumstances, it seems reasonable and feasible that encouragement should be given to children not only to grow flowers but vegetables as well," Supt. Miller said

Prizes are awarded annually to winners in the garden contests from a $1,000 fund set up under the will of General Roeliff Brinkerhoff. Mansfield historian and civic builder, who died in 1911.

Existing contest rules require participants to grow their own gardens with at least three different annual plants in them Flower beds must be at least three by five feet and not more than five by seven feet in size At the end of the season, the pupil must collect and preserve flower seeds from the garden.

APPROVES TWO

School Board OK's Teachers In Defense Classes.

The Mansfield board of education last night approved the appointment of two national defense class instructors and increased the working time of one assistant as a result of the transfer of several classes from the NYA resident center at Charles Mill reservoir to Senior high school

Appointed to teach classes at the high school shop were L. N. Ords in the church library, and William Cook, a part-time tool crib attendant, was placed on an expanded work schedule. Hanrote will teach welding and Wilkinson is an instructor in sheet metal work. They will work three hours a night five nights a week.

The board accepted the resignation of A G. Naus, another defense course instructor, who will devote all his time to his job in a Mansfield industrial plant.

Model train enthusiasts will find a display of interest in the Mansfield Public Library exhibition case this week. Exhibited by the Mansfield Model Railroad club the miniature pieces of railroad apparatus range from engines and tenders filled with real coal to refrigerator and cheese cars. Club members built the "Erie and Pacific .O' Gague," on display and they have laid tiny tracks to give additional color to the exhibit.

In this era of automobile and plane travel a train ride is still a novelty to a lot of people. When 14 employes of the Mansfield Westinghouse plant left recently for Baltimore to take a six-week course in government radio work, 12 of them were taking their first train ride The men ranged in age from 27 to 50 years. The 14 men were the first contingent of 100 Westinghouse employes expected to go east for specialized training in radio communication

AVIATION MEN BLAME ARMY, NAVY BOARD

Say Ships, Tanks, Guns Get Better Priority Ratings Under Rulings.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—American aviation corporations today warned war production officials that airplane manufacture will fall behind the goal set by President Roosevelt because the army and navy munitions board has failed to give aircraft the highest possible priority rating.

Making of airplanes, it was charged, is being put behind construction of battleships, light and medium tanks, guns and even some types of motor trucks.

An independent check of official war production priority lists revealed that battleships, light and medium tanks and guns have been given A-1-A ratings; four-motored bombers and navy aircraft have been given A-1-B ratings; and other military aircraft have been tagged with an A-1-D.

American Aviation, a trade magazine, in commenting on the situation in its current issue, says:

"At a time when the press, the president and the United Nations are placing the greatest stress on the immediate need for combat airplanes, the American people would be given a jolt far worse than Pearl Harbor if they knew the manner in which material to go into airplanes has been sidetracked and scuttled by brass hats in Washington."

Army officials, however, countered that statement with a declaration that the heavy bomber and combat plane is coming along "satisfactorily."

Many aviation companies, it was learned on unimpeachable authority, have told war production czar Donald Nelson that they must have higher priority ratings if they are to meet President Roosevelt's goal of 60 000 planes this year and 125,000 planes in 1943.

Twice within the past month, according to aviation industry spokesmen, Nelson has asked the army and navy munitions board to reconsider the priority ratings for planes but the board refused. Nelson could not be reached for comment An aide in his office explained that while the WPB chieftain had final powers in determining priorities, he generally allowed "the military people to say what they want and when they want it." Priorities are then issued on the basis of their recommendations.

Single License Tags Loom For Autos In Ohio

COLUMBUS —(AP)— War demands for steel may limit Ohio motorists—those who still have tires—to a single license plate next year.

"Ohio is ready to go to the one tag plan, if necessary," said Harold Culbert, assistant registrar of motor vehicles, in commenting on proposals for conserving metal.

On the other hand, the war production board in Washington, said Rep. August H. Anderson R-Minn), is prepared to allow states only small amounts of steel for strips to be affixed to 1942 plates, to show 1943 tax payments.

Culbert asserted Ohio officials would oppose the strip plan on the ground it would cost the state almost as much as production of new plates. New machinery for producing the strips would be required at Ohio penitentiary where tags are turned out, he explained Plates cost the state about eight cents a set.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

I don't know why, but George Satterlee mails me a copy of The Leader-Republican of Gloversville and Johnstown, N. Y., containing a long story to the effect that owners of the Gloversville team in the Canadian-American league are throwing up the sponge and turning the franchise back to the league.

Whether it's an indication that Satterlee feels the same way about the Mansfield Braves, or whether it's just a sign of the times, or whether it's merely a matter of information for me to mull over, I don't know. George sent no word of explanation.

But there are several angles to the Gloversville sponge-tossing party that should interest baseball fans of Mansfield.

The Gloves, like the Braves, are a Cleveland Indian farm club. And the Gloves, like the Braves, have been losing money for the past four years. And Alex Clowson, who managed the Braves last season, directed the Gloves in 1940.

The one sad note in the Gloversville story is the fact that the owners of the Gloves expected a representative of the Indians to show up for the directors meeting when the fate of the team for this season was to be decided. And he didn't show. Is that a sign of the times?

I have no way of knowing just what goes on in the back of Satterlee's mind, since he is a guy who never tells what he's going to do until he's ready to do it, but I wouldn't be surprised if he is preparing to back the Braves again this coming summer, all by himself, if necessary.

Now that he's given up his restaurant, George is in a position to give his entire time to operation of the ball club. And running the club himself, he can eliminate the overhead expense of a front office, which last season included the employment of a business manager and a secretary. Without that expense the Braves would have broken even last summer.

I know that Satterlee believes the Braves can break even this summer with the help of four or five special attractions in the way of exhibition games with big name teams.

I may be dreaming, but I've a hunch Mansfield's ball fans will be making their nightly trek out Springmill street to the ball yard and Martin's again this summer, even as in days of yore.

* * *

And for miles around you'll be able to hear "Frappie" Underwood yelling "Hair Oil," and "Rabbit Ears" at various persons in monkey suits, again.

Illini Clinch Big 10 Crown

Gophers Lose Last Chance At Loop Honors.

CHICAGO—(AP)—The kids from Illinois have decided when the time comes to divvy up the profits in the Big Ten basketball race they'll take all the shares.

They have cut out all the pardners except one — Indiana — and three other teams lent the Illini a hand there. Now with only five nights of play remaining the sophomore sensations from Champaign have a two-game lead. Three of their remaining tests will be at home, one will be at Iowa and the fifth on the neutral ground of the Chicago stadium against Northwestern.

If a co-championship had been in the books this season, Minnesota would have been the one to force it. But the Gophers lost their final chance last night when they dropped a 41-37 decision to the Illini, and only a terrific nosedive by the leaders can threaten their position.

Two other contenders bowed out over the week-end. Purdue lost to Minnesota Saturday and Wisconsin fell before Purdue last night, 40-43. Only Indiana, besides Illinois has less than four defeats and the hoosiers must win all their four games while Illinois drops two before the Hoosiers can share the title.

The potential champs had a nerve-wracking time last night before they beat back the Gophers. The teams played neck and neck through the first half, but the Illini drew on their vaunted power when play resumed and won handily.

Purdue's defeat of Wisconsin at Lafayette was a 25th anniversary present for Boilermakers coach Piggy Lambert, who received a blanket and wrist watch from the students.

* * *

Indiana, aided by Minnesota's loss, took over sole possession of second place by whupping ninth-place Michigan, 47-42, but it was a harder job than the Hoosiers had expected. Indiana trailed, 40-39, with two and one-half minutes to go, then took the lead on a pair of goals by Andy Zimmer.

* * *

Chicago's losing streak of three-seasons duration nearly came to an end at Evanston when the Maroons fought Northwestern all the way and held a one-point lead with 30 seconds to go. But the Wildcats won, 47-46, on Ray Vincent's basket and humbled Chicago for the 28th straight time. The Maroons have lost 12 of those games this season.

County Teams Prepare For Title Battles.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Ohio's 954 class B high schools toss their season's won-lost records into the discard this week as the chips go down in 86 county tournaments. All except Lake and Cuyahoga counties go into eliminations leading to the sectional, district and state titles.

* * *

The 202 class A squads still have a few regular-campaign chores to clean up before starting into the sectional qualifiers.

Records constructed during the regular season mean nothing as the teams head into the "win or get out" scraps from which only two can emerge victorious. From now on, every team has an equal chance at the class A crown held by Martins Ferry, or the class B laurels sported by Glenford.

No matter what sort of a season a team has had, the coach can point to the Newark squad of a few years ago which dropped eight games during the regular campaign and then romped to the class A championship. If you are looking for a sure-thing wager, however, you might pick the Nevada Bobcats of Wyandot county not to win the class B title, for that club lost its 36th straight contest to Vanlue Saturday night.

Also the chances are that Chet McPhee, the all-Ohio class B forward from Canfield won't get back to the state meet. Chet has scored 369 points in 18 games this year for an average of 20.5, but the club has dropped nine games. Cumberland of Guernsey county might be a good class B "pick," for that club wound up its season with 19 wins in 20 starts, the final being a 33-30 victory over Quaker City as a wedding present to its coach, Don Greenisen, who married Miss Betty Croy of Columbus the day of the contest.

An amazing set of upsets swept over the Buckeye scholastic realm as the regular season drew to a close, seven top-notch squads, including the defending champion Martins Ferry team, being handed their first defeats of the campaign.

The Ferry club, with 16 straight this season and an unbroken string of 34, bowed to East Liverpool 48 to 39 as the Potters stretched their at-home victory stretch to 25 games, 10 of them this season.

That result allowed Akron North's mighty Vikings to slip into the class A pace-setting role with 16 consecutive wins, while Ridgeway of Hardin county and Lorain Clearview, with 17 victories and no defeats, breezed into the class B lead. Ames-Bern of Athens county, last week's minor loop leaders with 18 in a row, was a 33-25 upset victim of Rome.

High scorer was Meyers of Appleseed with five baskets for 10 points.

The Loudonville reserves won their game, 28-27.

He Has New Goal---16 Feet

The champion going over at 15 feet 7¼ inches

Warmerdam and young friend

Not satisfied with his amazing new world pole vault record of 15 feet 7¼ inches, set in the Boston A. A. indoor games, Cornelius Warmerdam, California school teacher and former Fresno State college star, now looks toward a 16-foot ceiling. Warmerdam's new mark shattered all previous world indoor or outdoor marks held by him. Warmerdam, only man ever to do 15 feet, has cracked the indoor mark two weeks in a row.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—That idea of putting basketball officials up by the backboards may not solve the problem of getting them off the court, but a lot of coaches seem to think it's worth a try. . . . In recent experiments at Denver and Chattanooga, Tenn., opinions of the referees and players were divided. It is to be tried again in Detroit's Olympia arena next Saturday for the Alma-Michigan Normal game but the refs will be on the floor for the Detroit-Wayne contest on the same card . . . The American High School Bowling association plans to send the two top teams in its telegraphic tournament to the A. B. C. meet at Columbus, O., but the kids had better check first on how their eligibility will be affected. . . . A. A. U. officials hope to have Cornelius Warmerdam come back east for the national indoor track championships Feb. 28.

PHOTO FINISH

When the University of California crew went out for its first spring workout recently, a boatload of photographers trailed along. . . . The shutter snappers had just reached an agreement on the light, background, angles, etc., for the best shot and were taking aim when a voice hailed them from a nearby pier: "Don't point those those cameras this way or I'll put a bullet in you." . . . The photogs looked again and went back to the boathouse, where they were sure no military secrets were in the background.

HEADLINE HEADLINER.

Over a sports-page review of Tony Canzoneri's theatrical debut on Broadway, a Shakespearean headline-writer of the Chicago Daily News wrote. "Alas, Poor Tony! The Fight Customers Knew Him Well."

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Zipp Newman, Birmingham News: "Football players won't refer to their spring training as a grind—not if they think once about what other boys are undergoing in army camps and on the war fronts."

TREISCH TAKES TOP IN GASCO CIRCUIT

Treisch once more led the Ohio Fuel Gas bowling league at Colony alleys last night with a 573 total on games of 158-203-212, while Cole had high game of 220.

Edwards Signs Indian Contract

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Holdout worries, the bane of baseball clubs, will probably be removed from the assorted headaches and troubles the "experts" are predicting for young Lou Boudreau, manager of the Cleveland Indians.

Vice President Roger Peckinpaugh announced today that 21 of the 39 on the Tribe roster have mailed in contracts, the latest to sign being Henry Edwards, 23-year-old Norwalk, O., outfielder, formerly of the Mansfield Braves.

Notable among the Indians who have smoked the peace pipe in the Cleveland wigwam is once-balky Roy (Little Stormy) Weatherly. He signed his contract Saturday saying he was "ready to play my best for Boudreau." Those who know the tempestuous center fielder's ability are convinced that his best will aid materially in cutting down the number of gray hairs Boudreau is expected to add between now and September.

CONNIE MACK'S 1942 PITCHING STAFF INTACT

PHILADELPHIA — (INS) — Connie Mack's pitching staff for 1942 was intact today with the signing of Bill Beckman and Jack Hallet, husky young right-handers.

Dick Siebert, slugging first baseman, however, reported from his St. Paul home that if Mack's last contract was the final word he would rather quit baseball than sign up for the new season.

Blue Goose Plays Flxies

Double Bill Slated To Aid Madison Sport Fund.

The Blue Goose Sohioans and the Loudonville Flxible Clippers will meet in half of a double bill to be run off tomorrow night at Madison high school.

Other games will match the East Mansfield and Lucas junior high school quintets.

While the Sohio club is composed largely of Ram graduates, the Loudonville club draws its players from Ashland and Knox counties.

Ex-Rams now playing for the Blue Goose are Willard and Ken Lockhart, Joe Miller, Doug De Nero, Mel Harner and Bob Wilkins.

In the Loudonville lineup are Jake Givens, Bernard Weiss, both of Mt. Vernon; Larry Etzwiler, Kay Atterholt, "Pig" Seigfried and Jack Veach, for Loudonville players and Tommy Christoffer, formerly of Perrysville.

All proceeds from the game will go to the Madison athletic fund.

14-Year-Old Defends Title

Akron Gal, Set For State Badminton Finals.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Shirley Fry, 14-year-old Akron miss whose success in badminton and tennis has attracted more than statewide attention, will compete here Saturday, Feb. 21 in the annual Ohio State open badminton championship finals.

Miss Fry, a pretty captivating girl whose looks belie her age, is defending women's champion of the state. She will defend her title against the best players in Ohio, the middle Atlantic area, and eastern Canada.

She is a freshman at Akron Central high school but she gets time off to capture titles in tennis and badminton. Last week she attained the Atlantic coast championship in Washington as she beat Patsy Donovan, of Buffalo, N. Y., who held the Ohio title in 1940 and was ranged third among the nation's women players last year.

* * *

Shirley holds the Akron women's tennis championship as well as the badminton. She has also won the Indianapolis Athletic club's invitational tournament singles and the Ohio State closed tournament.

CHAPTER V

He took her to a night club in Greenwich village, a place new to her, and when the waiter led them to a table near the orchestra, Max objected so strenously that the waiter, seeming to reduce in stature, meekly led the way to an isolated table.

A man who made demands and got what he demanded.

"This is much better, isn't it?" Max asked, sitting opposite her at the table.

"You sound as if you are accustomed to giving orders."

His eyes narrowed. "I am. Shall we dance? We'll no doubt become better acquainted dancing and saying nothing than sitting here telling each other the story of our lives. But I warn you . . . I dance badly."

He did not dance badly. Rather he danced casually, his touch light. She could not say the usual things. She could say nothing because of wonderment as to what he would say next. But he said nothing as they danced, his touch became no longer light and casual; it was enclosing her in a world in which the only music was the music in her. She thought, "I feel lost. Utterly lost."

With the table between them again she asked, "Who are you, Max? I don't think I've ever met anyone like you before."

He laughed. "I haven't either . . . met anyone like me before. I don't know that I've ever met anyone like you before. You make me romantic. I never expected to feel romantic toward any girl again. Who am I? Does it matter?"

"No. Not very much."

He laughed again, but this time he was laughing at her. "It does matter to you. Very well. I was born and raised and educated here in New York. My parents are dead, but I've a host of rather mid-Victorian uncles and aunts to whom I'm quote devoted." He hesitated. "I'm an engineer and I've traveled extensively both for pleasure and business. I live in a hideous hotel room . . ."

There was so much more, she thought. Girls and places and events. So much that had made him into a man who always knew what he was going to say next.

He said, "You're a well-bred girl, Judith. I knew that the first time I saw you." Reaching for her hand, he drew it to the center of the table and held it tightly. "You're young and a little arrogant, but very adorable. No, you've never met anyone like me before, anyone who has lived, as violently as I. We won't go through the usual polite preliminaries, Judith, because we aren't usual people. There are depths in you you haven't discovered. And I—I care very much where we go from here. Do you?"

"I've never been in love, Max. I've never been hurt."

"I'll never hurt you, my darling."

They had been riding a long time through the unexpected rain that pecked at the windshield of his car. Just riding, nowhere, anywhere, after they had left the night club which had become crowded and noisy. And Max held her hand firmly, not releasing it even when he changed gears.

Her sense of belonging to him was overwhelming. She had talked to him of herself as she had never talked to anyone—of her childhood, her school years, her ambition in her work, her likes and dislikes. Dormant thoughts awoke, and she had be enspeaking breathlessly, her words rushing as though tonight he must know all there was to know about her. At times she thought, "This isn't real. This isn't me." But it was real and this was she . . . This was Max and this was love . . . Had Phyllis felt like this? Had Emily? Then she could understand their inconsistencies.

In these few hours she had felt that she knew Max better than she had ever known anyone. In the flow of talk and despite the tumult of her feelings she had felt his personality and character unfold. He was tender and patient. His voice did not command her. He did not make conversation merely for the sake of conversation yet in their silence she had felt that they were in unison and that to him had come in full measure what had come to her.

Finally she said, 'I should think such a brief chase would make me uninteresting."

He turned his head and smiled at her. "Not with me. Your affection for me will bind me. Through your gloves, Judith, I can feel how vital your hands are." After a while he said, "I'm going to take you home now and I'll see you—shall we say Tuesday? I'd like to make it sooner, but I had engagements before—" he chuckled—"before you flashed like a meteor across my sky."

"And I should be going home this week-end." A meteor across his sky?

"To a boy friend at home?"

"There isn't any boy at home."

When he smiled, she thought, "Perhaps I shouldn't let him feel too sure. But I want to be honest. I want him to know there isn't anyone else."

"I'd reconciled myself to keen competition."

"Had you? I don't like to be with people just to be going somewhere. You called me arrogant. I don't feel arrogant now." Exhilarated and yet humble and small and immensely grateful."

It was to become very familiar, his low, brief laugh which told her that what she had said had touched him and pleased him and amused him.

Half a block from the apartment house he stopped the car and drew her to him and kissed her long and ardently. Then he got out and together they walked up the street.

"Good night, Judith," he said rather gravely in the quiet hall and left her . . . She entered her apartment slowly and went into the bedroom, thinking, "Are you lonely immediately? He has scarcely walked to his car and I'm lonely for him. It's so new. It's so awfully new."

A Statement About

SUGAR

The War Production Board recently issued the following statement: Not more than 80% of the amount of sugar used in February, 1941, will be allotted to restaurateurs during February, 1942. It was indicated that March, April and subsequent monthly allotments will be further reduced.

On account of greatly increased restaurant business, this 80% supply of sugar must be carefully conserved so that each customer receives his fair share. Therefore, in fairness to everyone, we are serving limited quantities of sugar to all.

WITH REGARD TO A CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The News-Journal meets a need which can hardly be solved in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes, but also courteously acknowledges the service and kindness of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed, or whose names or addresses are not known.

A "Card of Thanks" can now be arranged by telephone: Dial 4251-6, ask for Miss Lane or Miss Stone, either will be glad to render whatever service and advice you need.

FILL YOUR COAL BIN

Here's Three Good Reasons Why:

1. We May Expect Defense Industries To Be Given Preference In Coal and Transportation.
2. At This Time There Is a Surplus of Coal and Cars, and Because of This, Prices Are Low.
3. Rubber and Tires—Are Being Rationed—Oil and Gas May Soon Follow.

Be Wise—Prepare For the Future!

HI TEST . . $8.25
Low ash—high in heat. This coal has been sold in Mansfield for the past twenty years. Its record for dependability is second to none.

KENTUCKY . . $8.00
High Quality Lump Coal. A slow-burning, economical fuel—burns to a fine red ash. A real buy for the money.

ELK RIVER . $7.50
A medium price Lump Coal, that's sure to please.

OHIO LUMP . $6.25
Here's a surprise—a very clean Lump Coal. Ignites readily, slow burning.

PAM—That Other Girl? By A. W. Brewerton

WELL, NO SUMMONS TODAY, BUT MR WENTWORTH PHONED HE THOUGHT IT WOULDN'T BE LONG NOW!
2-17
THE MORNING THEY WANT ME, I'M TO TELEPHONE COLONEL CAREY THAT I'M ILL--CAN'T GET DOWN TO WORK--HATE TO DECEIVE HIM LIKE THAT, BUT WHEN HE HEARS IN WHAT CAUSE I DID IT, I KNOW HE'LL FORGIVE ME!
WONDER WHAT THEY INTEND TO DO ABOUT THAT OTHER GIRL, HER NAME'S ANNE WESTON, TO GET HER OUT OF THE WAY? MAYBE THEY'LL ARREST HER! AWFUL TO THINK SHE'S GUILTY, TOO. POOR GIRL!
IN ANOTHER OFFICE JUST THEN, A CERTAIN PROMINENT MAN, HIGH UP IN THE GOVERNMENT SERVICE, IS SAYING TO HIS SECRETARY:
WELL, MISS ANNE, LOOKS AS IF I'LL HAVE TO TAKE A TRIP OUT WEST--MAY BE GONE S[OME] TIME- KNOW AN WATCH OR THINGS HERE-
I'LL DO MY BEST, SIR

MARKET LACKS BULLISH WAR INSPIRATION

Westinghouse Listed Among Backward Stocks In Early Dealings.

NEW YORK — Bullish war inspiration was lacking for the stock market today and leading issues generally inclined to slip slight fractions.

A trifle backward in early dealings were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Telephone, General Motors, Chrysler, Westinghouse, General Electric, Union Carbide, Western Union and Dow Chemical. Du Pont dropped nearly 2 points.

Brokers suggested that, while the market had pretty well discounted depressing bulletins from the far Pacific and elsewhere, real buying stimulus was conspicuous by its absence. Another batch of good earnings statements bolstered individual stocks.

Market analysts had this explanation for the cutting of the first quarter Du Pont dividend from $1.75 paid previously to $1.25: The concern is a large holder of General Motors common and dividends from the automotive shares have helped maintain the $1.75 rate. The reduction by "GM" of its latest dividend from $1 to 50 cents means a slicing of Du Pont revenues from this source. Directors of the latter, it was thought, considered mounting taxes, costs and the chances nearby motor disbursements hardly could be increased, and decided conservatism was the better part of valor.

WEEKLEY ASKS PUBLIC HEARING

Butler School Board Meets Today To Consider Dropping Charges.

Faced with a request by School Superintendent Willard S. Weekley for a public hearing on charges of "misconduct" brought against him, the Butler village school board, now reluctant to press the charges, was scheduled to meet today to consider dismissal of the accusations.

County Prosecutor Harold T. Lutz said the board had requested a meeting with him here to seek legal means of withdrawing the charges filed by 11 Butler and Worthington township residents.

Board Clerk Archie O'Hearn, he said, had asked for the meeting at the request of board members, whom he said wanted an opinion on the procedure to follow in dismissing the accusations.

Superintendent Weekley filed his request for a public hearing with the board last night. He said he had presented the statement to Board President Ivan Gower.

Weekley was suspended by the board Feb. 4; the suspension was later lifted at a special session in Mansfield during which 200 residents of the school district crowded the courthouse with demands that the board withdraw the charges.

The session climaxed two stormy days at the school during which pupils held a strike in protest to Weekley's dismissal. Two of the board members were beaten during one of the demonstrations.

BILLS DUE

City Starts Collection of Garbage Accounts.

Collection for garbage service for the next three months have been started and will continue until Feb. 25, Fred E. Lingafelter, secretary of the city's garbage department, announced today.

Lingafelter said that 4,700 bills for service during March, April and May had been sent out and that the bills totaled about $9,000.

The secretary asked that all residents bring the bills for their service with them at the time of making payment. Those failing to pay before the deadline will be placed on a delinquent list and collection service will be stopped on Feb. 28.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

Optimists Meet — Members of the Optimist club will discuss the sale of defense bonds and stamps at their regular meeting tomorrow noon in the Mansfield-Leland hotel. W. H. G. Kegg, is program chairman.

At Press Meeting—John W. Graham, general manager of The Mansfield News-Journal is in Chicago attending the annual meeting of the Inland Daily Press association. He is representing The News-Journal and its sister paper, The Lorain Journal.

Permits Issued—Two Mansfield contractors were issued building permits today for the construction of two new homes. Joseph Gfrer was given a permit to build a six-room home at 324 Taylor road at an estimated cost of $5,000. William Auer got a permit to construct a five-room home at 47 Glessner avenue for $4,800.

Doctors To Meet — Physicians enrolled in the Richland County Medical society will hear Dr. M. D. Schilling, district federal aviation medical examiner, discuss recent medical contributions gathered through observations of flying presonnel in the army air corps Thursday at 4 p. m. in the assembly room of General hospital.

Pays $20 Fine—John Podariu, 170 Marion avenue, was fined $20 and costs today when arraigned in municipal court on a charge of being a suspicious character. Podariu was arrested by police who said they found him loitering near a home on Glessner avenue. Podariu entered a plea of innocence but was found guilty by Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch.

Held For Forgery—Clarence Burns, 189 East Third street, was bound over to await action of the Richland county grand jury today after pleading innocent to a forgery charge in municipal court. Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch set bond at $2,000. Police said that Burns had passed worthless checks in several downtown stores and taverns.

3 MEETINGS FOR FARM WOMEN

Lucas Starts Sessions On Furniture Cover Making.

Three more meetings to instruct Richland county rural women in methods of preparing home-made covers for their furniture have been scheduled for this week by Miss Elizabeth Bay, county home demonstration agent.

First of the three sessions will be held at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Lucas school.

A meeting starting at 10 a. m. is scheduled for Thursday in the Lexington Grange hall. It will continue through the day. The meeting is designed specifically for women who are making covers, Miss Bay said. It was transferred to Lexington from King's Corners.

Final session of the week will be at 1:30 p. m. Friday in the Taylortown Grange hall.
